VISIBLE 55 MILES

Mightiest Blast In United States Awees Veterans

CAMP MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — An H-bomb type device, in the mightiest blast yet fired in the United States, sent a shower of rocks and sand flowering spectacularly thousands of feet over the desert Friday.

Fired in a chamber 650 feet under Yucca Flat, it awed veteran watchers of Nevada atomic fireworks by emitting a flash brilliantly visible 55 miles away at 10 a.m.

TOWERING PLUME

Then, under a wallop equal to 100,000 tons of TNT, the top 200 feet of earth soared skyward in the shape of a giant slate-gray cone. It rose to perhaps 7,000 feet, looking to observers like a giant chrysanthemum bloom. From the middle of the bloom shot a towering plume of smoke that rose quickly to 30,000 feet.

Gravel and sand sifted slowly earthward. Only the finest dust particles, carried aloft to 12,000 feet by the surging cloud, drifted off site to the north. The Atomic Energy Commission said the radioactivity would fall harmlessly on unpopulated areas.

The blast created a shallow crater 1,200 feet wide in the desert floor, just about what was expected. Depth was not immediately measured, but 300 feet was expected.

The dust cloud moved over State Highway 25. State police it for a time as a precautionary measure. Ten persons living at isolated ranches were moved, but will return in a day or so.

The cloud, thinning, was expected to drift from northeastern Nevada to north-central Colorado, then over Wyoming, Nebraska and the Dakotas as it dispersed.

The test was the second in the AEC's Plowshare series to test peaceful uses of atomic energy. The idea was to create a crater that would show scientists how they may some day use nuclear force for such projects as harbors and canals.

It was the first announced use of a hydrogen-bomb type explosive here. The previous shots were in the Nevada desert.

High Shot Held Back For Today

HONOLULU (AP) — Worsening weather conditions at Johnston Island threatened yet another delay Friday in the United States' third attempt to explode a big nuclear device above the Pacific island.

Joint Task Force 8 postponed the shot for a second 24-hour period just before midnight Thursday night after the countdown was about an hour from launch.

The new time set was between 11 Friday night and 2 30 a.m. Saturday—4 a.m. and 7 30 Eastern Standard Time Saturday.

But the Weather Bureau in Honolulu said photographs taken by the U.S. Tires satellite Friday showed overcasts and heavy cloudiness with rain squalls to the south and east of Johnston Island.

The easting clouds and rains probably would move in over the test area late Friday, a forecast said.

Scientists are hoping for clear skies for the shot so they can photograph the blast. They probably will not proceed if the area is overcast or has rains.

Two previous attempts to explode the giant warhead—officially reported to be about 10 megatons, equivalent to 10 million tons of TNT—failed when troubles developed in the Thor missiles used to boost the packages into space.

The Defense Department said Thursday night's delay was prompted by high winds aloft which could have interfered with the Thor's performance.

The shot, when it comes, is expected to be the biggest and highest in the current Pacific series which began April 25.

2 Jets Collide Above Kansas

ST. FRANCIS, Kan. (UPI) — Two Air Force jet planes crashed in a spectacular ball of fire Friday night while refueling over extreme northwestern Kansas.

Authorities reported at least one man was killed.

The fiery crash, which FAA authorities said apparently was caused by an explosion, was seen throughout the area.

The planes hurtled downward into a wheat field four miles north of Bird City, a tiny farm community east of here was just heat escaping. There was a tremendous amount of dirt and dust kicked up.

Second Cash Cache Found

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two paper sacks containing $168,675.52 were discovered Friday by police in a garage on the same street where $2.4 million was found in an abandoned car Tuesday.

Police also linked the latest cache of loot to imprisoned bookmaker Joseph Morarty.

The money, ranging from pennies to $100 bills, was stuffed in a shopping bag and a large brown sack. Also found by city police in the garage at 47 Oxford St. were a loaded .25-caliber automatic and gambling equipment.

Police Chief Austin J. Conley and Police Director William McLaughlin said they believed the garage was the last base of operations for Morarty who was sentenced last February to serve 2 to 3 years in the state prison at Trenton for bookmaking.

The $2.4 million was stashed away in an old green car abandoned in a garage just a block away at 123 Oxford St. Police said that store of money belonged to Morarty, but the tight-

NEW ORLEANS GROUP

Governor Raps New Probe Try

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis rejected Friday new moves aimed at sweeping investigation of his administration and pointed out a similar effort in the Senate recently could get only five votes.

The Metropolitan Criminal Commission of New Orleans had called for a probe of the state administration saying public confidence in state government's rule of protecting the public interest is disintegrating.

In Grand Canal Sen. B. H. Rogers, a frequent administration critic, said he would sponsor a new resolution when the legislature returns Monday calling for a non-partisan citizens committee to study the administration.

LOCAL PEOPLE

The governor said "I wish these critics of local situations would take their special grievances to the local people, because I always have taken the position publicly that local problems are best handled on local levels and until such time as law enforcement can't function and will function there would be no occasion for state action."

The crime commission said it would initiate its own investigation into the causes and effects of the current breakdown of Louisiana law, if the legislature refuses to make a probe.

Rogers called for a committee to be financed entirely through private contributions.

"I don't see how Gov. Jimmie H. Davis can reject this proposal," said Rogers. "If the state has nothing to hide, the governor should welcome this study."

The crime commission's request was made in a letter to the governor and legislators.

EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT

Blast Shoots Earth Like Roman Candle

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An eyewitness to the most powerful nuclear blast in the United States said Friday huge chunks of earth shot "into the air as if in a Roman candle."

"It was quite different from the usual air burst where you see a mushroom cloud," said Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif. "There was no mushroom cloud. It was more like a plug of dirt coming up out of the earth."

Hosmer was the only member of the congressional atomic committee to view the 100-kiloton explosion detonated 650 feet below ground at the Nevada test site, 65 miles north of Las Vegas.

"There was a small amount of blowing the sand around," he said. "There was quite a hole, roughly a quarter of a mile wide. The bottom wasn't visible because of the heavy dust, but the sides of the crater were very steep."

Hot Weather To Linger On

Hot summer weather will continue to prevail in Monroe and vicinity through Saturday night, according to the official forecast issued Friday night.

The forecast calls for a high of 95 degrees today, with the low 74. Saturday night expected to be about 74. Variable winds of five to 15 miles per hour will prevail Friday's high was 94 degrees after an overnight low of 71.

Senate Vote On Medicare Not Real Test

GOP's Version Defeated Friday By Voice Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate took its first vote on health care for the aged Friday, but it turned out to be far from any real test of sentiment toward the administration's controversial plan for linking the aid to Social Security.

A Republican proposal to use federal funds to pay private insurance premiums instead was beaten by a voice vote, but only 45 senators were present.

REAL SHOWDOWN

He had said before hand that he didn't expect his move to get anywhere.

Other substitutes for the compromise Social Security approach are expected to be offered. But the real showdown is not expected before next Wednesday or Thursday on the administration proposal.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois renewed his refusal to permit any debate limitation before then. Under Dirksen's plan, the government would have to pay up as much as $125 a year to pay premiums on private health insurance policies for persons over 65. The Kentuckian estimated it would cost the Treasury about $12 billion to $14 billion a year to finance his proposal.

But Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-M., chief sponsor of the compromise plan, put the cost estimate of Morton's proposal at $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion.

The administration plan, as it now stands, is estimated to cost about $1.2 billion a year to come from increased Social Security taxes.

Morton said his plan was "more in keeping with the American tradition of taxing those who have ability to pay."

Young Cotton Duster Injured In Plane Crash

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — A 21-year-old Lake Providence pilot of a cotton duster plane was injured Friday morning when his craft crashed into two guy wires supporting an electric utility pole.

The victim, identified as Billy Martin, a pilot for the Wilson Flying Service of Lake Providence, was reported in good condition late Friday in East Carroll Parish Hospital here. Extent of his injuries was unknown, hospital attendants said, but it was reported that he suffered a broken leg.

The pilot came to Lake Providence three years ago from Florida to join the flying service.

The crash occurred around 11 a.m. on Hollywood Plantation, located off of Highway 65 at the north edge of Lake Providence, while Martin was dusting cotton. The plantation is owned by the Brown Estate.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Fears of food rioting spread panic through the busy downtown streets of Rio de Janeiro on Friday. Merchants slammed down steel shutters and it took platoons of mounted police and marines to restore calm.

Senators Rap House On Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans accused House leaders Friday of "holding a gun to our heads" and then trying to blame them for the deadlock which has stymied action on the annual government money bill.

Senate Appropriations Committee members held two closed sessions with 84-year-old Chairman Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., and then made public two "no surrender" resolutions.

One suggested that the Senate and House appropriations groups name a special subcommittee to work out procedure for future years.

The other unanimously backed Hayden's course in the unprejudiced prestige dispute and said he "has been the victim of a vicious and unfair attack."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., No. 2 Democrat on the Senate group, told newsmen these attacks came from certain news media he did not name but added that House members "held a pistol at our heads" in demanding that he resign.

UNLESS MESS SOLVED

JFK's Brazil Visit Could Be Canceled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Unless Brazil speedily finds a way out of its governmental mess, President Kennedy in all likelihood will be obliged to postpone or cancel his projected goodwill trip there starting July 30.

To those in the administration anxious to get up a full head of steam for the Alliance for Progress, that probably would be another in a series of Latin-American reverses tending to diminish propaganda benefits from the Kennedy trips to Venezuela, Colombia and Mexico.

The administration has seemed to be trying hard to follow a fixed policy, only to have the Latin Americans themselves knock it repeatedly into a cocked hat.

Washington seemingly wants to follow the principle of recognizing and collaborating with governments which have established a legitimate right to rule by democratic processes. That's not easy.

Argentina's army evicted President Arturo Frondizi and installed strong executive authority.

Grab Poses Menace For Sahara's Oil

ALGIERS (UPI) — Moroccan troops were reported Friday to have seized a desert outpost 15 miles inside newly-independent Algeria and to be menacing a second one in what could be the beginning of a Moroccan grab for a greater share of the oil-rich Sahara Desert.

The fledgling Algerian national government was beset with the possibility of a military revolt, troubles in Tunisia and a new wave of OAS shooting in Oran, where 95 persons were killed Thursday and 163 wounded.

CHURCH INVADING

New disorders also broke in Algeria Friday when a crowd of some 800 Moslems invaded a Roman Catholic cathedral, damaged a statue of Joan of Arc, threw some church furnishings to the ground and desecrated the archbishop's throne.

The demonstrators dispersed after Moslem police arrived. They were protesting that the building, a towering Byzantine structure at the edge of the Casbah, originally was a mosque and therefore should be returned to the Moslems.

Algerian provisional government sources said the Moslems had occupied the post of Sef-Saf, 15 miles inside the frontier, and near the desert city of Colomb Bechar.

The Algerians officials said the Moslems also were menacing (Continued On Page Three-A)

Red Aid Maneuver Is Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration hopes to persuade Congress to let it maneuver around legislative restrictions on giving aid to Communist countries, it was learned Friday.

Administration officials disclosed plans for a major attempt to obtain the "flexibility" they believe is needed on occasions when the "national interest" requires that U.S. help be given to Communist nations.

Involved are three provisions recently tacked onto two major administration bills:

—A provision in the Senate-passed foreign aid bill denying all but surplus food aid to Communist countries. This would mainly affect Poland and Yugoslavia.

—Another provision in the Senate aid bill blocking help to countries which have expropriated American property, which would mainly apply to Brazil.

—A provision in the House-passed foreign trade bill denying most favored nation treatment to Communist countries. Most favored nation treatment means giving a country the same tariff benefits extended to any other country. Officials said the House provision would also seriously affect Yugoslavia.

The administration will seek modification of all three proposals when the aid bill comes up for action in the House next week and when the trade bill comes up soon for Senate hearings.

George F. Kennan, U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia, who is here on consultations, is helping to organize the strategy for seeking the revisions.

AID agency officials made clear they were not seeking complete removal of the aid restrictions, but only power for the President to make exceptions and grant help "when he deems it in the national interest."

U.S. Relaxes Travel Bars On Russians

Ruling Permits Soviet Tourists Free Movement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Friday advised Russia it is lifting its travel ban for Soviet tourists and exchange visitors, thus permitting them to travel anywhere they like in this country.

It urged that the Soviet government grant the same travel freedom to U.S. tourists in Russia.

OFFICIALS LIMITED

The U.S. action lifting the ban for tourists and visitors under the official exchange programs was communicated to the Russian Embassy in Washington. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball gave the note to Dobrynin at a 10 minute meeting at the State Department.

The note urged the "complete and mutual abolition of all travel restrictions" in both countries. In the past the United States has frequently protested what it considers the "arbitrary manner" in which Russia administers its travel restrictions.

Friday's action leaves intact the travel restrictions imposed against Soviet officials and correspondents in this country. These restrictions limit them to travel within a 25 mile radius of the centers of Washington, D.C. and New York City, except upon the filing of 48 hours advance notice.

U. S. officials said that among the major cities previously closed to tourists and exchange visitors which are now open are:

Charleston, W.Va.; Kalamazoo, Mich.; Memphis, Tenn.; Youngstown, Ohio; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Detroit, Mich.; St. Louis, Mo.; Hartford, Conn.; Springfield, Mass.; Rochester, N.Y.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Palm Beach, Fla.; Houston and Dallas, Tex.; Santa Fe, N.M.; Albuquerque, N. Second Cash Cache Found

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two paper sacks containing $168,675.52 were discovered Friday by police in a garage on the same street where $2.4 million was found in an abandoned car Tuesday.

Police also linked the latest cache of loot to imprisoned bookmaker Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty.

The money, ranging from pennies to $100 bills, was stuffed in a shopping bag and a large brown sack. Also found by city police in the garage at 47 Oxford St. were a loaded .25-caliber automatic and gambling equipment.

BASE OF OPERATIONS

Police Chief Austin J. Conley and Police Director William V. McLaughlin said they believed the garage was the last base of operations for Moriarty who was sentenced last February to serve 2 to 3 years in the state prison at Trenton for bookmaking.

The $2.4 million was stashed away in an old green car abandoned in a garage just a block away at 123 Oxford St. Police said that store of money belonged to Moriarty, but the tight-lipped bookie would neither claim nor deny ownership.

McLaughlin said city police had searched 40 or 50 garages in the Oxford Street area since Tuesday when three officers, Sgt. Joe Cosgrove and Detectives James Mitchell and Neil Granger, entered the windowless garage at No. 47.

In addition to the money and the automatic, they found three X-ray pictures in an envelope marked "J. Moriarty," 45 paper sacks containing numbers lottery slips, an electric fan and heater, a radio, three adding machines, several metal cabinets, old cookies and canned fruit, coffee and fruit juices.

Chief Conley said the articles meant the garage had been used as a numbers operations headquarters. He said the numbers slips were for 58 days of play—and the latest date on any of the slips was last Feb. 19.

Governor Raps New Probe Try

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis rejected Friday new moves aimed at sweeping investigation of his administration and pointed out a similar effort in the Senate recently could get only five votes.

The Metropolitan Crime Commission of New Orleans had called for a probe of the state administration saying "public confidence in state government's role of protecting the public interest is disintegrating."

In Grand Cane, Sen. B. H. Rogers, a frequent administration critic, said he would sponsor a new resolution when the legislature returns Monday calling for a non-partisan citizens committee to study the administration.

LOCAL PEOPLE

The governor said:

"I wish these critics of local situations would take their special grievances to the local people, because I always have taken the position publicly that local problems are best handled on local levels and until such time as law enforcement can't function and won't function, there would be no occasion for state action."

The crime commission said it would initiate its own investigation "into the causes and effects of the current breakdown of Louisiana laws" if the legislature refuses to make a probe.

Rogers called for a committee to be financed entirely through private contributions.

"I don't see how Gov. Jimmie H. Davis can reject this proposal," said Rogers. "If the state has nothing to hide, the governor should welcome this study."

The crime commission's request was made in a letter to the governor and legislators.

Brutality Described At Probe

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dist. Atty. Sargent Pitcher Jr. told Friday of harsh whippings with leather straps, fan belts and pieces of hose at a Negro correctional unit where a 15-year-old inmate was beaten to death.

The state school of some 769 inmates, ranging in age from 8 to 21, broke out in a riot after the death, he added.

Six employees of the State Industrial School for Colored Youth just north of here remained in jail, five on murder charges, a sixth for aggravated battery in another beating.

All personnel involved were Negroes.

The East Baton Rouge Parish District attorney made public findings of his special investigation, after the June 25 beating death of Hosea Fountain, a mentally retarded and diabetic inmate from New Orleans.

After Fountain's death Gov. Jimmie H. Davis called for full-scale investigation. He had no new comment on the district attorney's report.

During a closed meeting Thursday, his State Board of Institutions, headed by Chester Green, received the report but did not make it public. Pitcher later made it public himself. Green said a committee report would be made "when the time is considered appropriate."

Those charged with murder and still in jail are George D. Smith, 45, assistant superintendent, Damon Letherman, 27, Felton Holliday, 38, Isaac Jackson, 31, and E. J. Johnson, 33, all cottage fathers.

A sixth, Joseph Moses, was released on $2,500 bond on aggravated battery charges in the separate beating of Wesley Dixon.

Hot Weather To Linger On

Hot summer weather will continue to prevail in Monroe and vicinity through Saturday night, according to the official forecast issued Friday night.

The forecast calls for a high of 95 degrees today, with the low Saturday night expected to be about 74. Variable winds of five to 15 miles per hour will prevail.

Friday's high was 94 degrees after an overnight low of 71.

Senate Vote On Medicare Not Real Test

GOP's Version Defeated Friday By Voice Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate took its first vote on health care for the aged Friday, but it turned out to be far from any real test of sentiment toward the administration's controversial plan for linking the aid to Social Security.

A Republican proposal to use federal funds to pay private insurance premiums instead was beaten by a voice vote, but only about 15 senators were present. The Sponsor, Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., didn't bother to ask for a roll call.

REAL SHOWDOWN

He had said before hand that he didn't expect his move to get anywhere.

Other substitutes for the compromise Social Security approach are expected to be offered. But the real showdown is not expected before next Wednesday or Thursday on the administration proposal.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois renewed his refusal to permit any debate limitation before then. Under Morton's plan, the government would have put up as much as $125 a year to pay premiums on private health insurance policies for persons over 65. The Kentucky estimated it would cost the Treasury about $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion a year to finance his proposal.

But Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., chief sponsor of the compromise Kennedy plan, put the cost estimate of Morton's proposal at $1.7 billion to $2 billion.

The administration plan, as it now stands, is estimated to cost about $1.2 billion a year to come from increased Social Security taxes.

Morton said his plan was "more in keeping with the American tradition of taxing those who have ability to pay." He added that he hated to see Congress burdening payrolls with higher Social Security taxes because it makes American goods less competitive with those from abroad and lessens job opportunities.

Food shortages, the result of Brazil's inflation, plus a general strike in support of President Joao Goulart sparked the rioting.

Goulart has been seeking to form a new government under Brazil's shaky parliamentary system in which he governs along with a prime minister.

Sen. Auro de Moura Andrade, who resigned as prime minister only 36 hours after being approved this week, told newsmen in Brasilia the situation had developed into a military-political crisis. He confirmed for the first time previous reports that he resigned after differing with Goulart over military posts in the Cabinet.

JFK's Brazil Visit Could Be Canceled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Unless Brazil speedily finds a way out of its governmental mess, President Kennedy in all likelihood will be obliged to postpone or cancel his projected goodwill trip there starting July 30.

To those in the administration anxious to get up a full head of steam for the Alliance for Progress, that probably would be another in a series of Latin-American reverses tending to diminish propaganda benefits from the Kennedy trips to Venezuela, Colombia and Mexico.

The administration has seemed to be trying hard to follow a fixed policy, only to have the Latin Americans themselves knock it repeatedly into a cocked hat.

Washington seemingly wants to follow the principle of recognizing and collaborating with governments which have established a legitimate right to rule by democratic processes. That's not easy. Argentina's army evicted President Arturo Frondizi and installed a president over whom it stands as sentinel. The present government has only the appearance of legality.

In Ecuador, the armed forces pushed out President Jose Velasco Ibarra after riots against one of his tax decrees. It then had to accept Vice President Carlos Julio Arosemena. That was constitutional accession but hardly democratic procedure.

In Peru, the army disliked the results of national elections. It served notice on Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, with whom it has feuded for three decades, that he cannot be president although he received the most votes.

Just a year ago, Brazil was on the edge of civil conflict after President Janio Quadros resigned. Armed forces chiefs disliked his legal successor, Joao Goulart. The generals imposed a European-style parliamentary system giving power to a premier and Cabinet and depriving the president of his strong executive authority.

Grab Poses Menace For Sahara's Oil

ALGIERS (UPI) — Moroccan troops were reported Friday to have seized a desert outpost 15 miles inside newly-independent Algeria and to be menacing a second one in what could be the beginning of a Moroccan grab for a greater share of the oil-rich Sahara Desert.

The fledgling Algerian nationalist government was beset with the possibility of a military revolt, troubles in Tunisia and a new wave of OAS shooting in Oran, where 95 persons were killed Thursday and 163 wounded.

CHURCH INVADED

New disorders also broke in Algiers Friday when a crowd of some 800 Moslems invaded a Roman Catholic cathedral, damaged a statue of Joan of Arc, threw some church furnishings to the ground and desecrated the archbishop's throne.

The demonstrators dispersed after Moslem police arrived. They were protesting that the building, a towering Byzantine structure at the edge of the Casbah, originally was a mosque and therefore should be returned to the Moslems.

Algerian provisional government sources said the Moslems had occupied the post of Saf-Saf, 15 miles inside the frontier, and near the desert city of Colomb Bechar.

The Algiers officials said the Moslems also were menacing

Red Aid Maneuver Is Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration hopes to persuade Congress to let it maneuver around legislative restrictions on giving aid to Communist countries, it was learned Friday.

Administration officials disclosed plans for a major attempt to obtain the "flexibility" they believe is needed on occasions when the "national interest" requires that U. S. help be given to Communist nations.

Involved are three provisions recently tacked onto two major administration bills:

—A provision in the Senate-passed foreign aid bill denying all but surplus food aid to Communist countries. This would mainly affect Poland and Yugoslavia.

—Another provision in the Senate aid bill blocking help to countries which have expropriated American property, which would mainly apply to Brazil.

—A provision in the House-passed foreign trade bill denying most favored nation treatment to Communist countries. Most favored nation treatment means giving a country the same tariff benefits extended to any other country. Officials said the House provision would also seriously affect Yugoslavia.

The administration will seek modification of all three proposals when the aid bill comes up for action in the House next week and when the trade bill comes up soon for Senate hearings.

George F. Kennan, U. S. ambassador to Yugoslavia who is here on consultations, is helping to organize the strategy for seeking the revisions.

AID agency officials made clear they were not seeking complete removal of the aid restrictions, but only power for the President to make exceptions and grant help "when he deems it in the national interest."

IN WINNFIELD AREA

Road Check Shows No Fraud Evidence

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) Director Ray Burgess said Friday the Department of Highways failed to find any evidence of fraud in a highway project on U.S. 84 between Winnfield and Tullos.

Burgess said the department's investigation disclosed that most of the overrun of materials — almost 20,000 cubic yards of base course — was due to "shrinkage and wintering."

He explained that this was brought on by two winters of work, causing the loss of part of the original material when construction was stopped.

The project involves almost 16 miles of asphalt roadway construction — in three phases under separate contracts — at a total cost of $1,830,199.

Burgess said the project engineer, Harry C. Dixbrow, was dismissed on October 23, 1961 for incompetence.

He explained that the first project, 8.3 miles east from Winnfield, was constructed by the Atlas Construction Co., a subsidiary of T. L. James Construction Co. of Ruston at a cost of $554,938.

The second job — a half fill and bridge on a 1.8 mile stretch near Tullos — was done by Hall & Holland Construction Co. at a cost of $690,394.

Burgess said the third phase is under construction by Cenla Construction Co., covering six miles at a cost of $584,867.

Approval by the Department of

Highways and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads has been granted on the first two phases of the project.

Southern Given Order To Begin On Bargaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board ordered Southern Airways Friday to begin bargaining in good faith on means of settling a two-year strike by pilots against it.

The board gave Southern 30 days in which to comply with its order. It said if the airline failed to comply the board "would take appropriate steps."

The Air Line Pilots Association started a strike against Southern June 5, 1960.

Negotiations between the union and the airline broke down July 12, 1960 because of the requests by the association and counter demands of the airline regarding reinstatement and seniority of strikers and possible disciplinary action against strikers.

The board ruled Friday that the demands of Southern relating to seniority and discipline were illegal.

Theft, Minor Auto Crashes Occupy Law

A theft and relatively minor automobile accidents — only one of them involving personal injury — occupied area law enforcement authorities Friday.

Monroe police were investigating the theft of a wallet containing about $60 from the room at the Majestic Hotel of Joe F. Noble, of 1724 Shirley Park, Alexandria. Noble told officers he left the room open and returned to find his billfold missing.

Robert L. Rushing, 43, of 303 Peniel Road, West Monroe, was in Wright Clinic after an accident around 10 p.m. on Louisiana 34 (Jonesboro Road). Attendants said Rushing suffered a cut on the inside lower lip, a lacerated knee, contusion of the upper abdomen and possible mild concussion when his car left the road in front of the Peniel Baptist Church and struck a culvert.

Police in Monroe by 11 p.m. had investigated a total of five minor crashes during the day, none involving injury. Charged in separate accidents with following two closely were Cline Averett Jr., 2323 Swiss St., West Monroe, and Bobby J. Edwards, 300 Curve Dr., West Monroe. Richard Schuster, 206 Clark St., Monroe was charged with reckless driving in an other collision.

West Monroe officers booked 19-year old Roy E. Barnore, Box 444, Rayville, with speeding after he was apprehended on Cypress Street.

Daniel Owen Ferguson, two-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, was in the St. Francis Hospital Friday night, reported suffering from chemical pneumonia. The child drank a mixture of diesel oil and tree poisoning agent in the evening at his home, Route 1, box 250, West Monroe.

The real power of this play, however, lay in the impact of the restless, questioning spirit of the twentieth century upon narrow interpretations of the Bible. The crowd scenes, the scenery itself and the top quality courtroom clash between the two lawyers made for a highly satisfactory first night at the local summer theatre season.

Tryouts for the next production will open Tuesday at Strauss Playhouse.

Scopes Says Play Here Is Realistic

By JOHN CALE Staff Critic

The combined efforts of the Lat Theatre of Monroe and the Speech and Drama department of Northeast State College went into last night's opening of the Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee documentary, "Inherit the Wind."

The play is based on the Scopes trial of 1925, which featured a debate between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow on the subject of evolution versus the Bible. Principals in last night's performance were:

Robert L. Rushing, 43, of 303 Peniel Road, West Monroe, was in Wright Clinic after an accident around 10 p.m. on Louisiana 34 (Jonesboro Road). WIDOW VISITS CITY

Book Pays Tribute To Gen. Chennault

The late General Claire Chennault, famed Flying Tiger commander of World War Two, was a man of steel with a certain tenderness that made him loved and respected.

That is the way his widow, Anna Chennault, author of a new book, "A Thousand Springs," remembers him.

She made a guest appearance Friday afternoon at the Ford Levi Stationery Store here during a 2 1/2-hour autograph party, which drew a large turnout.

Mrs. Chennault, who met the general at a press conference in China in 1944 during World War Two, when she was serving as a war correspondent for Central News Agency, said:

"He was so different from all the other great men I have met. It seemed to me he was made of steel, yet in the hardness there was a certain tenderness that made him respected by all the people who worked for and with him."

She and the general were married three years after this meeting. She was 24. He was 54. She was a native of China and a Catholic. He was a Texan, reared in Texas, and of protestant faith.

They maintained a vacation home in Monroe for several years. During most of this time they were headquartered on Formosa. The general died in 1958 after a long battle against cancer.

This is Mrs. Chennault's second book in English. The publisher is Paul S. Erikson Inc., New York. She is author of 13 books in all, including novels, essays and short stories.

At present she is working on another book, a novel with a World War Two setting in China. She vice president Richard Nixon is and her two small daughters, Claire Anna and Cynthia Louise, have been residents of Washington for about four years.

She is on the staff of the Institute of Languages and Linguistics at Georgetown University, and in spare time does fashion designs, some of which are scheduled for exhibit in Central and South America.

The dedication of "A Thousand Springs" states: "To the many loyal associates of General Chennault who made possible his 'Triumphs'—the American Volunteer Group, the 14th Air Force, and the 'CAT' Airline."

Of the inspiration for this book, Mrs. Chennault said, "I have always written novels and short stories. After he (the general) died, I had had such a wonderful life with that I wanted to share my experiences with others. I have considered myself a very fortunate woman being married to a very great man who dearly loved me."

Mrs. Chennault's autograph party here brought many visitors who knew her or the general when they made vacation trips to Monroe, or through contacts with them in foreign travel. Some reminisced of military service that had brought them into an acquaintanceship with the general.

Being an author, fashion designer and expert on linguistics would seem to be enough to keep one person busy, but Mrs. Chennault has other missions.

She is president of the General Claire Chennault Foundation, which has as its purpose the building of better relations between east and west. Former president of Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman of the foundation and former War Two setting in China. She vice president Richard Nixon is

A theft and relatively minor automobile accidents — only one of them involving personal injury — occupied area law enforcement authorities Friday.

Monroe police were investigating the theft of a wallet containing about $60 from the room at the Majestic Hotel of Joe F. Noble, of 1724 Shirley Park, Alexandria. Noble told officers he left the room open and returned to find his billfold missing.

Robert L. Rushing, 43, of 303 Peniel Road, West Monroe, was in Wright Clinic after an accident around 10 p.m. on Louisiana 34 (Jonesboro Road). Attendants said Rushing suffered a cut on the inside lower lip, a lacerated knee, contusion of the upper abdomen and possible mild concussion when his car left the road in front of the Peniel Baptist Church and struck a culvert.

Police in Monroe by 11 p.m. had investigated a total of five minor crashes during the day, none involving injury. Charged in separate accidents with following too closely were Cline Averett Jr., 2522 Swiss St., West Monroe, and Bobby J. Edwards, 300 Curve Dr., West Monroe. Richard Schuster, 206 Clark St., Monroe was charged with reckless driving in another collision.

West Monroe officers booked 19 year old Roy E. Barnore, Box 444, Rayville, with speeding after he was apprehended on Cypress Street.

Daniel Owen Ferguson, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, was in the St. Francis Hospital Friday night, reported suffering from chemical pneumonia. The child drank a mixture of diesel oil and tree poisoning early in the evening at his home, Route 1, box 250, West Monroe.

BABY'S FUSSY ABOUT CLOTHES

Baby, during his first year of life, has only two requirements of clothing: cleanliness and warmth, says the National Baby Care Council. Baby doesn't like to be overdressed, it makes him fussy. He doesn't like clothing put over his head, preferring wrap-around garments. Thus, says the NBCC, baby's needs can best be met by a minimum of clothes that allow for growth, are easy to put on and take off, are washable and are durable.

'INHERIT THE WIND'

Scopes Says Play Here Is Realistic

By JOHN CALE

Staff Critic

The combined efforts of the Little Theatre of Monroe and the Speech and Drama department of Northeast State College went into last night's opening of the Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee documentary, "Inherit the Wind."

The play is based on the Scopes trial of 1925, which featured a debate between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow on the subject of evolution versus the Bible. Principals in last night's performance were:

Betty Bandy as Rachel Brown, V. P. Daylinple Rev. Jeremiah Brown, Bill Haddad, Meeker, the jailor, Bill Wells, Bertram Cates, E. K. Hornbeck, Mike Parkerson, Beryl Franklin, Matthew Harrison Brady, Nancy Franklin, Mrs. Brady, Charles Cook, Tom Davenport, George Brain, Henry Drummond, John Goorley, Judge

A touch of realism was added to the production by the presence in the audience of John Scopes, the defendant in the actual case, who resides in Shreveport. Following the opening night performance at Strauss Playhouse, Scopes made the following observation:

"Allowing for the dramatic license of condensing two or three weeks of proceedings into a couple of hours, the play is a good representation of what actually took place."

Before a background of leftover architecture from the 1890's, and ideas long buried in various Bible commentaries, lawyers M. H. Brady, played by Beryl Franklin, and Henry Drummond, played by George Brain, brought to life a Tennessee trial of the 1920's.

Schoolteacher Bertram Cates happened to read a few lines from Darwin's "Origin of the Species" to a junior high biology class in the northern fringe of the "Bible Belt," and the lid was off. Injected into the case was a love affair between Cates and another schoolteacher, Rachel Brown, who just happened to be the daughter of the Rev. Jeremiah Scopes, who followed a doctrine about as far from evolution as one could get.

From a critics viewpoint, the lawyers did a fine job, the lovers were convincing, the preacher rattled all the "Amen's" from the Corner," and the judge, press and radio men — perhaps a little unaccustomed to early use of their media. First night rough edges will doubtless smooth out, and the play runs through Monday.

Betty Bandy did a remarkable job of playing it straight after a long career in local musicals. A year at LSU has also made its mark on W. J. Haddad by way of his restrained role as the jailor.

Both Franklin and Brian, in addition to eloquent speaking parts, managed to remain in character as elderly gentlemen whose mental agility had outlasted their ability to move about the courtroom.

IMPACT

The real power of this play, however, lay in the impact of the restless, questioning spirit of the twentieth century upon narrow interpretations of the Bible. The crowd scenes, the scenery itself and the top quality courtroom clash between the two lawyers made for a highly satisfactory first night at the local summer theatre season.

Tryouts for the next production will open Tuesday at Strauss Playhouse.

CHEESE SAUCE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Almond blue cheese sauce makes a tasty dish with green beans. Cook 2 packages of frozen French style green beans according to package directions. Drain and toss with sauce made by melting ¼ cup butter in a saucepan; add ½ cup of slivered almonds. Remove from heat, stir in ½ cup (about 3 ounces) of blue cheese and toss with hot, drained beans.

WIDOW VISITS CITY

Book Pays Tribute To Gen. Chennault

The late General Claire Chennault, famed Flying Tiger commander of World War Two, was a man of steel with a certain tenderness that made him loved and respected.

That is the way his widow, Anna Chan Chennault, author of a new autobiography about him, "A Thousand Springs," remembers him.

She made a guest appearance Friday afternoon at the Ferd Levi Stationery Store here during a 2½-hour autograph party, which drew a large turnout.

Mrs. Chennault, who met the general at a press conference in China in 1944 during World War Two, when she was serving as war correspondent for Central News Agency, said:

"He was so different from all the other great men I have met. It seemed to me he was made of steel, yet in the hardness there was a certain tenderness that made him respected by all the people who worked for and with him."

She and the general were married three years after this meeting. She was 24. He was 54. She was a native of China and a Catholic. He was a Texan, reared in Tensas Parish, and of protestant faith.

They maintained a vacation home in Monroe for several years. During most of this time they were headquartered on Formosa. The general died in 1958 after a long battle against cancer.

This is Mrs. Chennault's second book in English. The publisher is Paul S. Erikson Inc., New York. She is author of 13 books in all, including novels, essays and short stories.

At present she is working on another book, a novel with a World War Two setting in China. She and her two small daughters, Claire Anna and Cynthia Louise, have been residents of Washington for about four years.

She is on the staff of the Institute of Languages and Linguistics at Georgetown University, and in her spare time does fashion designs, some of which are scheduled for exhibit in Central and South America.

The dedication of "A Thousand Springs" states: "To the many loyal associates of General Chennault who made possible his 'Triple Miracles'—the American Volunteer Group, the 14th Air Force, and the 'CAT' Airline."

Of the inspiration for this book, Mrs. Chennault said, "I have always written novels and short stories. After he (the general) died, I had had such a wonderful life with that I wanted to share my experiences with others. I have considered myself a very fortunate woman being married to a very great man who dearly loved me."

Mrs. Chennault's autograph party here brought many visitors who knew her or the general when they made vacation trips to Monroe, or through contacts with them in foreign travel. Some reminisced of military service that had brought them into an acquaintanceship with the general.

Being an author, fashion designer and expert on linguistics would seem to be enough to keep one person busy, but Mrs. Chennault has other missions.

She is president of the General Claire Chennault Foundation which has as its purpose the building of better relations between east and west. Former president Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman of the foundation and former vice president Richard Nixon is

Limited Output Of Citronelle Oil Will Continue

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The Citronelle oil field will continue in limited production during July, an oil official said Friday.

State oil supervisor Philip E. LaMoreaux said the Citronelle-Mobile Gathering System, Ltd., has nominated purchase of 200,000 barrels at $2.665 per barrel during the month.

LaMoreaux made the announcement following an emergency meeting of the state oil board at Tuscaloosa.

The 300,000-barrel nomination by the gathering system was the same as made by the company last month, when the field was reopened to limited production.

The field was shut down in late April when the gathering system refused to take a proposed 20-cent per barrel cut in the price of the Citronelle crude.

The North Mobile County field, Alabama's only major field, produced approximately 610,000 barrels in March, the last month of full production.

She is also president of Chinese Refugee Relief which has been endorsed by President Kennedy. Herbert Hoover and former President Truman are co-chairman. Mrs. Chennault will return to Washington today.

Road Check Shows No Fraud Evidence

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) Director Ray Burgess said Friday the Department of Highways failed to find any evidence of fraud in a highway project on U.S. 84 between Winnfield and Tullis.

Burgess said the department's investigation disclosed that most of the overrun of materials — almost 20,000 cubic yards of base course — was due to "shrinkage and wintering."

He explained that this was brought on by two winters of work, causing the loss of part of the original material when construction was stopped.

The project involves almost 16 miles of asphalt roadway construction — in three phases under separate contracts — at a total cost of $1,830,199.

Burgess said the project engineer, Harry C. Dixrow, was dismissed on October 23, 1961 for incompetence.

He explained that the first project, 8.3 miles east from Winnfield, was constructed by the Atlas Construction Co., a subsidiary of T. L. James Construction Co. of Ruston at a cost of $554,938.

The second job — a high fill and bridge on a 1.8 mile stretch near Tullis — was done by Hall & Holland Construction Co. at a cost of $690,394.

Burgess said the third phase is under construction by Cenla Construction Co., covering six miles at a cost of $584,867.

Approval by the Department of

Highways and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads has been granted on the first two phases of the project.

Southern Given Order To Begin On Bargaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board ordered Southern Airways Friday to begin bargaining in good faith on means of settling a two-year strike by pilots against it.

The board gave Southern 30 days in which to comply with its order. It said if the airline failed to comply the board "would take appropriate steps."

The Air Line Pilots Association started a strike against Southern June 5, 1960.

Negotiations between the union and the airline broke down July 12, 1960 because of the requests by the association and counter demands of the airline regarding reinstatement and seniority of strikers and possible disciplinary action against strikers.

The board ruled Friday that the demands of Southern relating to seniority and discipline were illegal.

Mightiest Blast In United States Awes Veterans

test series between 1961 and 1968, and in the latest series of 41 underground shots starting last September, have been presumed to involve conventional atomic explosives.

The difference is that so-called atomic bomb have uranium as the basic ingredient and nuclear fission. H-bomb types use heavy hydrogen as the basic ingredient, and employ a process known as fusion. They require an A-bomb type trigger, however.

The force of Friday's shot was equal to 100 kilotons, or 100,000 tons of TNT. This compares with 74.3 kilotons for the previous most powerful, a shot from a tethered balloon in 1957.

Scientists take to the air Saturday for the first time since 1958. They'll touch off two low-yield atmospheric shots a few feet off the desert floor.

They're for weapons development, as presumably have been all others here except Friday's. The first shot in the Plovers series was underground in New Mexico salt beds.

The AEC announced earlier in the week that there would be one blast in the air Friday. The announcement of the second shot was added a few hours after the underground explosion.

The AEC estimated that 96 percent of the radioactivity produced Friday was trapped in the ground, or in earth that fell back promptly. It timed the blast to coincide with weather conditions which would minimize off-site radiation exposure.

In addition, the thermonuclear device itself was designed to be relatively "clean." H-bomb type devices create relatively little radioactivity.

All previous shots since the United States began testing here last year after a three-year moratorium have been conducted in secrecy. The wraps were lifted slightly Friday, because of the peaceful nature of the experiment. But the site remained closed to unofficial observers and newsmen had to watch from mountaintops miles away.

Dubbed Project Sedan, it was part of a program expected to lead some day to gigantic excavations not now economically possible.

Experts say that, for instance, a new Panama Canal 150 miles long could be blasted by nuclear means at a cost of $2.3 billion, against $13 billion by conventional means. And it could be 1,000 feet wide and 250 feet deep, compared with 600 feet wide and 40 feet deep, conventional style.

The Sedan device was planted at the bottom of a 650-foot shaft sunk in desert alluvium at the atomic test site 65 miles north of Las Vegas, in a shallow valley between barren desert hills.

The earth is a mixture of volcanic ash, rock and sand. Scientists gauged the depth to create a crater wide enough so that most rubble would fall back into it, preventing it from contaminating surrounding countryside. The site will be carefully measured and studied to determine precisely the results of the test.

Back in gay Las Vegas, the city of spinning roulette wheels and sparkling night life, the blast created barely a ripple of excitement. It was neither felt nor heard.

To come Red Station, who said he climbed out of bed at 8:30 a.m. hoping to see something—which he didn't—it was "another big step toward peace."

"If people can learn there is so much destruction in their hands they'll be very careful in selecting those to whom they should give this power," said he.

A woman who wouldn't give her name said when asked to comment: "Never ask a woman about anything that has to do with war. If you'd look in the Bible you'd learn that."

the Algerian Sahara town of Tindouf, some 400 miles southwest of Algiers.

At the same time a dissident Algerian nationalist leader charged that the Tunisian government has "encircled" Algerian troops stationed there but cutting off their food supplies and depriving them of communications from the outside.

The charge was made to a news conference in Rabat, Morocco, by Mohammed Khider, who resigned recently from his post as minister of state in the Algerian Provisional Government (GPRA). Khider is a strong supporter of leftist vice premier Mohammed Ben Bella, who broke recently with provisional premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

An authoritative report here Friday night said that in Thursday's shooting in the west port city 75 Moslems and 30 Europeans were killed. A total of 123 Moslems and 40 Europeans were wounded, the report said.

Panic Increases In Algeria Strife

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — Panic, new outbreak of firing in the European city. This time, however, Moslem policemen and civilians were the only persons seen shooting. They fired at windows and balconies of European apartment houses, apparently in a hunt for terrorists, but no new casualties were reported.

The panic was further increased Friday morning with a

Impasse Holds
Friday During
Meet On Laos

GENEVA (UPI) — Leaders of the six main delegations at the 14-nation Laos conference met for more than two hours Friday but failed to break the impasse which is threatening to delay early completion of the conference.

Leaders of the delegations of the United States, Communist China, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and India met at the Soviet villa for a fresh attempt to complete a Laotian peace accord.

An American spokesman said afterwards the meeting produced only a "statement of views" and that in fact both East and West failed to budge from their previous positions.

The conference resumed Monday to work out a declaration of Laotian neutrality now that the southeast Asian nation has a coalition government made up of neutralist, pro-Western, and pro-Communist factions.

But the Communist delegations Thursday stood fast in their opposition to allowing the conference to develop a plan for integrating the three factions' armed forces into a single Laotian army.

The Western nations want to include an agreement on the army in the declaration to be produced by the conference. They want assurances that left-over army units will be demobilized and not allowed to threaten the peace. Their goal is a genuinely unified army of 12,000 to 15,000 men.

The West apparently fears that the large Pathet Lao forces of Deputy Premier Prince Souphavong, a pro-Communist, could cause trouble for the Laotian government if they are not disbanded.

1000 Troops Fly To Battle In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — U.S. helicopters and transport planes flew 1,000 South Vietnamese troops into battle Friday against a Communist guerrilla headquarters village west of Saigon and a guerrilla concentration to the south.

About 20 Army helicopters airlifted Vietnamese rangers to the guerrilla headquarters of Rachquet, a small village about 20 miles west of Saigon. U.S. Air Force C-123 transports flew two companies of red-bereaved Vietnamese paratroopers to the same area in a diversionary action, but they were held in reserve. A total of 600 troops took part.

Three South Vietnamese air force planes, propeller-driven AD-4 fighter-bombers, destroyed a rebel ordnance plant near Rachquet with bombs.

In the other sweep against the rebels, 18 U.S. Marine helicopters transported about 400 South Vietnamese troops into the Camau peninsula, 150 miles south of Saigon, in pursuit of guerrillas who overran a government post there Thursday.

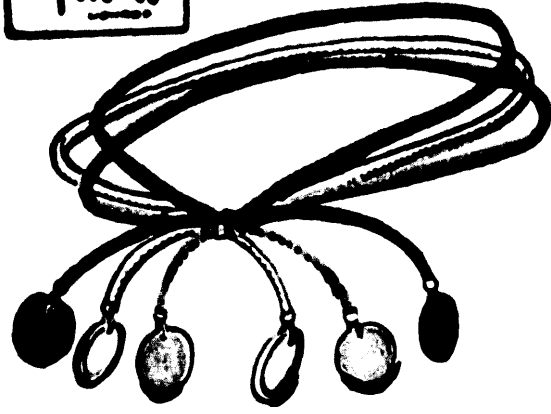

The helicopters dropped the troops along the rebels' line of retreat, a U.S. military spokesman said. The Communists killed seven troops and four civilians in their attack on the government post at Cai Ngay and captured and wounded several others.

No immediate casualty figures were available for the counter-attack, but informed sources said seven rebels were killed in the Rachquet fighting.

The helicopters roared in low over rice paddies and dropped the Vietnamese rangers near the village. The Communists opened fire as soon as the rangers landed, but were driven back in a sharp fight.

The government troops then spread out through the surrounding area to round up fleeing rebels.

REV. W. B. TRIMBLE

Rev. Trimble Accepts City Rector Post

The Rev. William Bradley Trimble has resigned as rector of St. Matthias' Episcopal Church in Shreveport effective August 15 to assume new duties as rector of Grace Episcopal Church in Monroe.

James H. Kincaid, senior warden of the Shreveport church, said the vestry had accepted the resignation. A resolution expressed the congregation's gratitude to the rector and offered congratulations to the Grace church in Monroe.

During the seven years of his tenure at St. Matthias', the Rev. Mr. Trimble has seen the parish grow to its present status of nearly 500 communicants, and build its new $185,000 church. In addition to his parish duties, the Rev. Mr. Trimble has served both diocese and community in a number of posts.

He has been a member of the boards of the Departments of Christian Education, Missions, and Stewardship, of the Board of Managers of Camp Hardtner, Youth Advisor to the Shreveport Convocation, Dean of the Shreveport Convocation, and on the Bishop and Council. He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the following organizations: the Shreveport Ministerial Assn., the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the Ark-La-Tex Anti-Communism Assn.; and has been a popular speaker before many Shreveport charitable, cultural, and civic groups.

A native of Washington Hempstead County, Ark., the Rev. Mr. Trimble was educated at El Dorado Junior College, Arkansas College, and the University of Arkansas Law School. He was admitted to the practice of law and to the Arkansas Bar Assn., in 1936. From 1936 to 1951 he was active in El Dorado in private law practice, as city attorney, as deputy district attorney, and as the owner of an automobile dealership. In 1951, he entered St. Luke's Seminary, the University of the South, in Sewanee, Tenn., and was ordained priest in 1954.

The Rev. Mr. Trimble served as priest-in-charge of mission churches in McGhee, Arkansas City, and Lake Village, Ark., and has been rector at St. Matthias' since 1955.

Mrs. Trimble is the former Josephine Finch of Malvern, Ark., and the couple has four children: William Bradley Trimble Jr., a graduate of the University of the South and presently at the Naval Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I.; Joseph Trimble, a junior at the University of the South; Kathryn, a high school senior; and Rebecca, a sophomore.

Rev. Trimble will move from Shreveport with his family around August 15 and assume full duties as minister at Grace Episcopal September 1.

He and his family will live in the rectory at corner Erin and N. Fifth Sts.

He will replace Rev. A. Donald Davies, who resigned in January to become Army chaplain. Asst. Curate William Baldridge has been serving as minister since that time.

Impasse Holds Friday During Meet On Laos

GENEVA (UPI) — Leaders of the six main delegations at the 14-nation Laos conference met for more than two hours Friday but failed to break the impasse which is threatening to delay early completion of the conference.

Leaders of the delegations of the United States, Communist China, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and India met at the Soviet villa for a fresh attempt to complete a Laotian peace accord.

An American spokesman said afterwards the meeting produced only a "statement of views" and that in fact both East and West failed to budge from their previous positions.

The conference resumed Monday to work out a declaration of Laotian neutrality now that the southeast Asian nation has a coalition government made up of neutralist, pro-Western, and pro-Communist factions.

But the Communist delegations Thursday stood fast in their opposition to allowing the conference to develop a plan for integrating the three factions' armed forces into a single Laotian army.

The Western nations want to include an agreement on the army in the declaration to be produced by the conference. They want assurances that left-over army units will be demobilized and not allowed to threaten the peace. Their goal is a genuinely unified army of 12,000 to 15,000 men.

The West apparently fears that the large Pathet Lao forces of Deputy Premier Prince Souphavong, a pro-Communist, could cause trouble for the Laotian government if they are not disbanded.

Mightiest Blast In United States Awes Veterans

test series between 1951 and 1958, and in the latest series of 41 underground shots starting last September, have been presumed to involve conventional atomic explosives.

The difference is that so-called atomic bomb have uranium as the basic ingredient and explode in a process known as nuclear fission. H-bomb types use heavy hydrogen as the basic ingredient, and employ a process known as fusion. They require an A-bomb type trigger, however.

The force of Friday's shot was equal to 100 kilotons, or 100,000 tons of TNT. This compares with 74.3 kilotons for the previous most powerful, a shot from a tethered balloon in 1957.

Scientists take to the air Saturday for the first time since 1958. They'll touch off two low-yield atmospheric shots a few feet off the desert floor.

They're for weapons development, as presumably have been all others here except Friday's. The first shot in the Plowshare series was underground in New Mexico salt beds.

The AEC announced earlier in the week that there would be one blast in the air Friday. The announcement of the second shot was added a few hours after the underground explosion.

The AEC estimated that 95 per cent of the radioactivity produced Friday was trapped in the ground, or in earth that fell back promptly. It timed the blast to coincide with weather conditions which would minimize off-site radiation exposure.

In addition, the thermonuclear device itself was designed to be relatively "clean." H-bomb type devices create relatively little radioactivity.

All previous shots since the United States began testing here last year after a three-year moratorium have been conducted in secrecy. The wraps were lifted slightly Friday, because of the peaceful nature of the experiment. But the site remained closed to unofficial observers and newsmen had to watch from mountaintops miles away.

Dubbed Project Sedan, it was part of a program expected to lead some day to gigantic excavations not now economically possible.

Experts say that, for instance, a new Panama Canal 150 miles long could be blasted by nuclear means at a cost of $2.3 billion, against $13 billion by conventional means. And it could be 1,000 feet wide and 250 feet deep, compared with 600 feet wide and 60 deep, conventional style.

The Sedan device was planted at the bottom of a 650-foot shaft sunk in desert alluvium at the atomic test site 65 miles north of Las Vegas, in a shallow valley between barren desert hills.

The earth is a mixture of volcanic ash, rock and sand. Scientists gauged the depth to create a crater wide enough so that most rubble would fall back into it, preventing it from contaminating surrounding countryside. The site will be carefully measured and studied to determine precisely the results of the test.

Back in gay Las Vegas, the city of spinning roulette wheels and sparkling night life, the blast created barely a ripple of excitement. It was neither felt nor heard.

To comic Red Skelton, who said he climbed out of bed at 6:30 a.m. hoping to see something—which he didn't—it was "another big step toward peace."

"If people can learn there is so much destruction in their hands they'll be very careful in selecting those to whom they should give this power," said he.

The charge was made at a news conference in Rabat, Morocco, by Mohammed Khider, who resigned recently from his post as minister of state in the Algerian Provisional Government (GPRA). Khider is a strong supporter of leftist vice premier Mohammed Ben Bella, who broke recently with provisional premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Panic Increases In Algeria Strife

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — Panic-stricken Europeans besieged travel offices Friday seeking transport to France following Thursday's Moslem-European conflict in which nearly five score persons died.

The panic was further increased Friday morning with a new outbreak of firing in the European city. This time, however, Moslem policemen and civilians were the only persons seen shooting. They fired at windows and balconies of European apartment houses, apparently in a hunt for terrorists, but no new casualties were reported.

A mixed Moslem-European medical commission announced 21 Europeans. All but two died of bullet wounds. The figures of the battle—the bloodiest in Oran's history—were announced by Dr. Mustapha Nait, prosecutor's office and newly installed Moslem police, said 75 of those killed were Moslems and 21 Europeans.

Canada Battles Deficit

Long spending and tall credit, known in this nation and also in Louisiana as deficit financing, have met with a day of reckoning in Canada. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has put into effect an austerity program.

All this means that Canadian citizens will have to pay more for most of the things they must buy until the Canadian government is able to straighten out its financial problems.

Now why should Canada have to face up to such a situation, The United States has climbed the spiral staircase of inflation since the 1930's and it is still not politic for any party or individual running for any office to come out for a clampdown.

But it might be necessary. In fact an austerity program for the United States and the individual states may be long overdue. The causes are similar to Canada's economic illness.

Through high spending on credit — actions which have wrecked financially many families and businesses — Canada has been operating welfare programs it could not afford. The government has tried to offset the mounting debt with higher taxes. But these served only to stifle the country's economic health because they cut returns on investments also discouraged the people from risking new investments and building new businesses.

The next logical step in such an austerity program is to trim the budget. This Prime Minister Diefenbaker has promised to do if he can get parliament to go along. The estimated Canadian deficit for this year is $745 million.

As part of the follow up, the Canadian government hopes to reduce the taxes which do the most to stifle economic development. If this is handled properly and quickly, the business climate in Canada should improve.

New investments will in a short time result in new profits that will offset the temporary loss in revenues and give the Canadian government a broader tax basis for future growth.

Such moves are never easy to sell to governing bodies. The Louisiana Legislature floated bond issues to delay its day of reckoning. Interest piles up in such a delay. Congress, Walter Reuther, President Kennedy and the National Chamber of Commerce—all speak favorably of an "across the board" cut in income taxes for U.S. citizens. But at the same time there has been a lifting of the ceiling on the national debt to the tune of some $8 billion. Both the state bonds and the increased national debt ceiling work against the pattern of sane financing with lower taxes.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker might have difficulty in selling his austerity plan to the Canadian Parliament. His Conservative Party lost heavily in the recent elections.

But the balance of power is now held by the Social Credit Party, an organization that gained seats by virtue of opposing the welfare state and deficit spending policies of both Conservative and Liberal parties.

Apparently certain people in Canada saw the flaws in the high-spending and high taxation plans and made their sentiments known through a third party. So Canada may work her way out of the hole she backed into.

Canada received help from the United States as her deficit mounted. To this help, she has now added a measure of will power toward financial good sense.

With the same symptoms showing in Louisiana as well as in the United States, we want lower taxes and higher spending. This is hardly a demonstration of the good sense our neighbor to the north has shown in battling inflation and other financial ills.

You First, Alphonse

There used to be a comic strip in which two characters spent so much time saying, "You first, my dear Alphonse," and "You first, my dear Gaston," that they were always holding up the works. That was another way of pointing out that politeness can be carried to extremes.

Since motorists have been urged so often and so strongly to be polite in their driving and since, as a general rule, politeness, rather than ruthlessness, is preferable not only in driving but in all other activities, to say that politeness can be overdone may seem strange.

Nevertheless, within the space of less than one block, the honest, well-intentioned politeness of one driver resulted in what appeared to be at least eight near-accidents. Because the driver was polite, no one seemed to lose his temper and the accidents were averted.

Because the left lane was clogged and motorists going the other direction were unable to make a left turn into the intersecting street, the polite driver dropped back far enough to allow an opening. A car went into this opening and was about to start across the next lane when a car in the original right lane zipped by, almost hitting him. This was followed by similar performances by some five other cars before the driver caught in the middle was able to go on across. By this time, one of the drivers who had zipped by on the right side of the polite driver decided he wanted in the left lane, so he started nosing in. The polite driver kindly let him in. When the polite driver finally reached the light at which a major left turn is made, another driver in the right lane decided to make a left turn, although a left turn from that lane is illegal. The polite man patiently waited and the violator got into his lane and made the left turn before the light changed but the other cars had to wait.

All of this happened mainly because one driver wanted to cross two lanes of packed traffic instead of going down another block or waiting until he had a full clearance, and another driver let him.

Like a slow driver, a super-polite driver may sometimes tie up more traffic than those who just take what is open to them without hogging.

Democrats Bitingly Berated

Leaders Likely To Remember Scorching Castigation They Got From Morse At Strategy Meeting

Senate Democratic leaders are likely to remember for quite a while the scorching castigation they got from Senator Wayne Morse at a strategy meeting.

The militant Oregonian jolted this unannounced pow-wow into startled astonishment by lacing into the party chiefs as caustically as if they were hostile Republicans.

The flabbergasted Democratic leaders were biting berated for timidity, pussyfooting and backsliding.

When Morse finished blasting them, not one said a word in reply.

The only comment was Vice President Lyndon Johnson's wry remark, "One thing is certain. When Wayne has anything to say, he never leaves any doubt as to what's on his mind."

President Kennedy apparently felt the same way, and wanted a first-hand account of Morse's rambling, rambling thinking.

Several days after this backstage explosion, the President invited Morse for a private late afternoon talk. It lasted an hour and a half — Morse entering and leaving the White House unobserved.

What transpired between them is unknown. But Morse seems to be quite content. He may not have swallowed the proverbial canary, but he must have gotten something!

The meeting was the first of two arranged by Senate Democratic leaders to discuss campaign policies and plans with Democratic senators up for re-election and others seeking Senate seats. Vice President Johnson presided, flanked by the party's two floor leaders — Senators Mike Mansfield, Mont., and Hubert Humphrey, Minn.

Among those attending were Senators Frank Church, Idaho; Joseph Clark, Philadelphia; J. W. Fulbright, Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; Carl Hayden, Ariz., head of the Appropriations Committee; Frank Lausche, O.; Edward Long, Mo.; Warren Magnuson, Wash., chairman of the Commerce Committee; Representative Daniel Inouye, Hawaii; and HEW Secretary Abraham Ribicoff.

TELLING 'EM OFF — Until Morse unlimbered his scathing tongue the meeting was peaceful and quiet. In fact, it verged on sweetness and light.

Democrat after Democrat voiced the opinion that controversial measures of the President's legislative program should be shelved until next year, after the fall election is out of the way.

Particularly singled out for such ditching were the hotly embattled Medicare for the aged plan; the dividend and interest tax withholding proposal that was voted by the House, but has been stalled for weeks in the Senate Finance Committee; and the drastic grain control bill that the Senate passed, but which the House rejected by a close margin.

Finally, Vice President Johnson, summing up these views, said, "As I gather it, the consensus of this meeting is to advise the President that these measures should be laid over until the next Congress."

At this point, Morse, who had been listening in brooding silence, exploded with a roar.

"That may be the consensus of this meeting," he snapped, "but I want the record to show that it most emphatically is not mine. And that goes for the great majority of the American people, too. I couldn't disagree more with you, and neither do they.

"What you propose is a betrayal of the heart of what the Democratic party and the Kennedy Administration stand for. The party and the Administration solemnly pledged to do their utmost to enact these measures. If you now pussyfoot and backslide, the party will be overwhelmingly defeated in this year's elections. I know the temper of the voters; they want action and you had better watch your step.

"It's been said here that most of the doctors are against the Medicare plan. But nothing has been said about most of the people being for it. We were told that a majority of the Senate is against the dividend and interest withholding tax. Maybe so. But that's no reason why this measure should be pigeonholed. That is a $600 million tax loophole, and it's time we plugged it up. The House approved it, and I see utterly no reason why the Senate shouldn't.

"You mark my word. You're asking for defeat by stalling and dodging these issues. You can't fool the voters. The great majority of them know what's going on, and they will be very tough on Democratic candidates if we have not yet replied and run for cover on these measures. I'm telling you, it's far better to go down fighting for them in the Senate than to shelve them and get kicked by the voters."

With that scorching blast, the meeting concluded. What the next one will produce, remains to be seen. It will probably be uneventful, as Morse was not there. He is not being asked.

POLITICALS — Starting next week, President Kennedy is initiating a number of carefully photographed meetings with Democratic senatorial candidates to help them in their campaigns. Both still and motion pictures will be taken of these White House sessions, at which the individual candidates and the President will be photographed discussing "state and national problems." Similar picture-taking meetings are being arranged with Cabinet members, foremost among them Defense Secretary McNamara, Secretary of State Rusk, and Labor Secretary Goldwater. Reed Benson, son of former Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson, is going after the seat held by Representative David King, D-Utah, who is running against Senator Wallace Bennett, R-Utah. Young Benson is one of a half dozen GOP candidates for King's House seat.

Democratic National Chairman John Bailey has no intention of giving up that job. That's what he is emphatically telling Democratic congressional leaders in reply to reports he plans to quit to manage HEW senatorial campaign. Bailey is saying he intends to help on that, but not give up the national Secretary Ribicoff's chairmanship. Defense Secretary McNamara is making a lot of use of the Navy's yacht SEQUOIA to woo congressional backing for his embattled plan to sharply cut National Guard and Reserve forces. Members of the House and Senate Armed Services Committees have been taken on yacht trips down the Potomac with McNamara and other Pentagon leaders in an effort to win support for their proposal. The effectiveness of this social lobbying is doubtful. Representative F. Edward Hebert, D-La., is still as strongly opposed as ever after one of these pleasurable jaunts.

WASHINGTON SHORTS

TEXAS G. O. P. PROSPECTS — Unexpected closeness of the Texas gubernatorial race and the bitterness it has engendered has raised Republican hopes of electing a Governor of the Lone Star State for the first time since Reconstruction days. Some sizeable contributions have been made with the proviso that they be used in Texas, where Jack Cox, a former Democrat, is the gubernatorial candidate. G. O. P.'s other best hopes in Texas are in the race for Congress — at-large and in two or three district Congressional races.

CONGRESS SLOW PACE — Congress at the end of five months this week has completed action on one major New Frontier bill — the manpower retraining measure. There were a handful of other measures passed such as increasing the national debt limit by $2,000,000,000 and an amendment to the Welfare and Pensions Disclosure Act. It has not even passed any of the null appropriation bills, which will total just under $100,000,000,000.

STOCKPILE BILL DELAY — There is extreme doubt that Symington stock pile disposal bill can be readied for debate at the present session of Congress. Senate subcommittee hearings are proceeding at a snail's pace and probably cannot be completed before Labor Day. Two reasons for the delay: Major Executive Department agency reports asked for by the Senate Committee have not yet replied and a parallel Office of Emergency Planning and General Services Administration study of disposal has not yet been completed. In its present form Symington bill would ease disposal of about $3,800,000,000 in surplus stockpile.

GOVERNOR BROTHERS — There are now two Governors who are brothers, but there soon may be none. Governor Price Daniel of Texas was recently defeated for renomination. Governor William P. Daniel of Guam, who was appointed by President Kennedy, advocates making his office an elective one. Guam at present is an incorporated territory of the United States. The Guam Organic Act of 1950, conferred United States citizenship on Guamanians.

FRUITS OF PRIMARIES — The results of several primaries had bitter and sweet for both parties. Republicans were pleased with Richard M. Nixon's win in California as well as the heavy vote in a State where the Democrats have an overwhelming lead in registration, but privately they admit Nixon is still the underdog in the race against Governor Edmund G. Brown. Bitter fight in Connecticut where John Alop won the convention endorsement for Governor chilled G. O. P. Kennedy Administration was deeply disappointed when Representative Frank Smith, only out — and out Kennedy man in the Mississippi Congressional delegation, was swamped by Representative Jamie Whitten, most anti-Administration Congressman from that State.

Stumping Stars

Kennedy Most Political-Minded.
Eisenhower Least In Feud

John F. Kennedy, perhaps the most political-minded of all our presidents, and Dwight D. Eisenhower, who when in the White House seemed the least interested in politics of all our presidents, will be the stumping stars of their respective parties in this autumn's state and congressional elections, it now is certain.

Any president of the United States can easily dominate his party's campaigns and is the most sought-after speaker. And President Kennedy is itching to hit the campaign trail for the Democratic cause. His political aides say so far his own most direct statement was that at a press conference: "I will be active in the fall, but we haven't fixed a definite schedule."

The "we" in the president's statement was taken to mean the Democratic campaign managers, and also implied that Mr. Kennedy would go where he could do the most good.

Ex-President Eisenhower, 27 years older than his successor in the White House, leaves no doubt with anyone who talks to him that he is anxious to wade into the Democratic on domestic economic policies as vigorously as he did a fortnight ago.

On that occasion, addressing 3,000 cheering persons at a fund-raising dinner in Washington, Eisenhower attributed glaring failure to the Kennedy administration, which he accused of floundering and thrashing aimlessly. In private talks since the former president has been even more trenchant, although he gave Kennedy a boost in his effort to win the big victory in the House on the tariff bill.

Except for Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, all of the field out of which the G. O. P. 1964 presidential nominee could conceivably come — Rockefeller in New York, Nixon in California, Romney in Michigan, Scrantom in Pennsylvania and Seaton in Nebraska — will be busily occupied in their own gubernatorial races at the time the former president expects to celebrate his 72nd birthday rallying support for state and congressional tickets. Eisenhower will make his plans when he returns from Europe. One of the points Eisenhower may hit on the campaign highway is in his native state—Texas — where Republicans think they have a good chance to elect a governor.

Up to a month ago it was tacitly understood that the big Republican effort would be to install their gubernatorial candidates in the state houses of the larger states in the hopes of building organizations as can be done with state patronage.

Now, however, the Republicans think they have a real chance to carry the House of Representatives, and, at all events, surely will make some gains. They are pinning their hopes partially on urban areas where they have been weak. It is in cities where the stock market slump has hit men and women of modest means hardest, they point out. Moreover, they say, Democratic policies have failed to provide job opportunities in these areas.

President Kennedy, of course, is anxious to see wins for such gubernatorial candidates as Brown in California, Dilworth in Pennsylvania, Swainson in Michigan, and DiSalle in Ohio and to do as well as possible against Rockefeller in New York, although he sees no real chance for a Democratic win there.

But the biggest stakes for the president personally is in Congress. There is no chance for the Senate, with its staggered system of electing only a third of its membership at a time, will be lost to the Democrats.

The president, of course, will be interested in the election of his brother, the Senator at large in Massachusetts. He indicated at his most recent press conference (by a slip of the tongue some think) that he expected Edward to win the Massachusetts primary, and most authorities think he will. The president is also interested in the fortunes of three Democratic senators reported in deep trouble — Church in Idaho, Clark in Pennsylvania, Carroll in Colorado and Hicke in Wyoming.

It is the House of Representatives which the president regards as a possible sepulcher of administration legislation in the 88 Congress. He is not content merely for Democrats to hold the House reins. The Democratic majority in the present House—2 Democrats and 174 Republicans is a paper one. He wants a Kennedy Congress.

The Democratic Congress, constituted as it is, contributed votes that gave him what he calls a staggering defeat on a farm bill.

It will be interesting to see Kennedy and Eisenhower campaign for their parties when neither himself nor the ticket and Eisenhower great popularity never rubbed on his party. He carried through a small congressional majority his first landslide.

At the first midterm election with Eisenhower in the White House the Democrats won House of Representatives and the second off-year election

Kennedy as presidential candidate in 1960 did not run as a Democratic ticket far from the scale. Democrats in the Senate and House by some majorities although 20 Democratic House members were seated the day Kennedy won own close election.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Fears Insanity

Principal Danger Of Personal Habit I Found In Worrying

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a 21-year-old college student. I am not only thoroughly ashamed of myself for indulging in occasional masturbation, but I have lately developed fears that I might be going insane. I hear conflicting reports that such self-indulgence is harmless; and others, that it may lead to degeneration and actual insanity. The fact that I realize that masturbation is a widespread habit among the young — and even among adults — doesn't lessen my problem. Will you comment? — X

Comment: I will not enter into a discussion of the possible mental, emotional, moral and physical by-products of masturbation. To free you, and many others, of the fear that they walk the precipice of mental deterioration, neurosis, and actual insanity (and remember I am not conceding a habit which is usually self-limited and disappears in due time) let me quote fully from a piece which you may wish to read on page 698 of the May 26, 1962 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. It first appeared in the Journal of Mental Sciences in January, 1962, and was written by Dr. E. H. Hare:

"During the last 15 years of the 19th century, there was a great decline in the belief that masturbation could cause insanity and epilepsy. The belief still lingered in the writings of some older psychiatrists... but these were vestiges, and by the beginning of the 20th century the majority of writers had adopted the view of Kraepelin (1896) that insanity is never caused by onanism (masturbation)." This together with the renewed interest in the neuroses aroused by the writings of Beard, Charcot, and Janet, raised into prominence the second aspect of the masturbatory hypothesis, the belief that masturbation was a common cause of neurotic disorders... The masturbatory hypothesis still finds a place in the psychiatric textbooks of the 'thirties, though the bold assertions of earlier decades are now emasculated and become coupled with the opinion that the harmful effects of masturbation are not due to the act itself but to worry over "exaggerated opinions" of its consequences. By the irony of history, this view — that masturbation is harmful only if, from ignorance or misinformation, the patient worries about it — is all that now survives of the masturbatory hypothesis. Two centuries of indoctrination have taught public a lesson which it can get less quickly than can its teachers; and today the principal concern of medical writers on subject is to persuade the patient that its fears of the consequence of masturbation are groundless.

Comment: If carefully this erudite presentation of problem will bring comfort many who now needlessly wail fear. (The volume of my ma tests to how much this problem bothers many youngsters thru out the land.) Neither will I so many might believe—bring much relief from anxiety thru I will further encourage the I. By some curious logic, lead that masturbation did not (insanity or other serious trouble was often the main factor in discontinuance of the habit).

So, to you distressed person who may have forgotten problems of your own youth to youngsters who have been unnaturally introverted and full, I hope I have brought some comfort and ease of spirit. The habit? This shall pass.

Canada Battles Deficit

Long spending and tall credit, known in this nation and also in Louisiana as deficit financing, have met with a day of reckoning in Canada. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has put into effect an austerity program.

All this means that Canadian citizens will have to pay more for most of the things they must buy until the Canadian government is able to straighten out its financial problems.

Now why should Canada have to face up to such a situation, The United States has climbed the spiral staircase of inflation since the 1930's and it is still not politic for any party or individual running for any office to come out for a clampdown.

But it might be necessary. In fact an austerity program for the United States and the individual states may be long overdue. The causes are similar to Canada's economic illness.

Through high spending on credit — actions which have wrecked financially many families and businesses — Canada has been operating welfare programs it could not afford. The government has tried to offset the mounting debt with higher taxes. But these served only to stifle the country's economic health because they cut returns on investments also discouraged the people from risking new investments and building new businesses.

The next logical step in such an austerity program is to trim the budget. This Prime Minister Diefenbaker has promised to do if he can get parliament to go along. The estimated Canadian deficit for this year is $745 million.

As part of the follow up, the Canadian government hopes to reduce the taxes which do the most to stifle economic development. If this is handled properly and quickly, the business climate in Canada should improve.

New investments will in a short time result in new profits that will offset the temporary loss in revenues and give the Canadian government a broader tax basis for future growth.

Such moves are never easy to sell to governing bodies. The Louisiana Legislature floated bond issues to delay its day of reckoning. Interest piles up in such a delay. Congress, Walter Reuther, President Kennedy and the National Chamber of Commerce—all speak favorably of an "across the board" cut in income taxes for U.S. citizens. But at the same time there has been a lifting of the ceiling on the national debt to the tune of some $8 billion. Both the state bonds and the increased national debt ceiling work against the pattern of sane financing with lower taxes.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker might have difficulty in selling his austerity plan to the Canadian Parliament. His Conservative Party lost heavily in the recent elections.

But the balance of power is now held by the Social Credit Party, an organization that gained seats by virtue of opposing the welfare state and deficit spending policies of both Conservative and Liberal parties.

Apparently certain people in Canada saw the flaws in the high-spending and high taxation plans and made their sentiments known through a third party. So Canada may work her way out of the hole she backed into.

Canada received help from the United States as her deficit mounted. To this help, she has now added a measure of will power toward financial good sense.

With the same symptoms showing in Louisiana as well as in the United States, we want lower taxes and higher spending. This is hardly a demonstration of the good sense our neighbor to the north has shown in battling inflation and other financial ills.

You First, Alphonse

There used to be a comic strip in which two characters spent so much time saying, "You first, my dear Alphonse," and "You first, my dear Gaston," that they were always holding up the works. That was another way of pointing out that politeness can be carried to extremes.

Since motorists have been urged so often and so strongly to be polite in their driving and since, as a general rule, politeness, rather than ruthlessness, is preferable not only in driving but in all other activities, to say that politeness can be overdone may seem strange.

Nevertheless, within the space of less than one block, the honest, well-intentioned politeness of one driver resulted in what appeared to be at least eight near-accidents. Because the driver was polite, no one seemed to lose his temper and the accidents were averted.

The series of near-accidents occurred on a four-lane street near its intersection with another street less than a block from where most of the traffic makes a left turn. At the point at which most of the traffic turns left, no left turn is permitted from the right traffic lane nearest the curb, although the "go" signal in the right lane is on about twice as long as that in the left. This means that traffic piles up in the left lane but keeps flowing most of the time in the right lane.

Because the left lane was clogged and motorists going the other direction were unable to make a left turn into the intersecting street, the polite driver dropped back far enough to allow an opening. A car went into this opening and was about to start across the next lane when a car in the original right lane zipped by, almost hitting him. This was followed by similar performances by some five other cars before the driver caught in the middle was able to go on across. By this time, one of the drivers who had zipped by on the right side of the polite driver decided he wanted in the left lane, so he started nosing in. The polite driver kindly let him in. When the polite driver finally reached the light at which a major left turn is made, another driver in the right lane decided to make a left turn, although a left turn from that lane is illegal. The polite man patiently waited and the violator got into his lane and made the left turn before the light changed but the other cars had to wait.

All of this happened mainly because one driver wanted to cross two lanes of packed traffic instead of going down another block or waiting until he had a full clearance, and another driver let him.

Like a slow driver, a super-polite driver may sometimes tie up more traffic than those who just take what is open to them without hogging.

Democrats Bitingly Berated

Leaders Likely To Remember Scorching Castigation They Got From Morse At Strategy Meeting

Senate Democratic leaders are likely to remember for quite a while the scorching castigation they got from Senator Wayne Morse at a strategy meeting.

The militant Oregonian jolted the startled assembly by lacing into the party chiefs as caustically as if they were hostile Republicans.

The flabbergasted Democratic leaders were biting berated for timidity, pussyfooting and backsliding.

When Morse finished blasting them, not one said a word in reply.

The only comment was Vice President Lyndon Johnson's wry remark, "One thing is certain. When Wayne has anything to say, he never leaves any doubt as to what's on his mind."

President Kennedy apparently felt the same way, and wanted a first-hand account of Morse's rambunctious tirade.

Several days after this backstage explosion, the President invited Morse for a private late afternoon talk. It lasted an hour and a half — Morse entering and leaving the White House unobserved.

What transpired between them is unknown. But Morse seems to be quite content. He may not have swallowed the proverbial canary, but he must have gotten something!

The meeting was the first of two arranged by Senate Democratic leaders to discuss campaign policies and plans with Democratic senators up for re-election and others seeking Senate seats. Vice President Johnson presided, flanked by the party's two floor leaders — Senators Mike Mansfield, Mont., and Hubert Humphrey, Minn.

Among those attending were Senators Frank Church, Idaho; Joseph Clark, Philadelphia; J. W. Fulbright, Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; Carl Hayden, Ariz., head of the Appropriations Committee; Frank Lausche, O.; Edward Long, Mo.; Warren Magnuson, Wash., chairman of the Commerce Committee; Representative Daniel Inouye, Hawaii, and HEW Secretary Abraham Ribicoff.

TELLING 'EM OFF — Until Morse unlimbered his searing guns the meeting was peaceful and quiet. In fact, it verged on sweetness and light.

Democrat after Democrat voiced the opinion that controversial measures of the President's legislative program should be shelved until next year, after the fall election is out of the way.

Particularly singled out for such ditching were the hotly embattled Medicare for the aged plan; the dividend and interest tax withholding proposal that was voted by the House, but has been stalled for weeks in the Senate Finance Committee; and the drastic grain control bill that the Senate passed, but which the House rejected by a close margin.

Finally, Vice President Johnson, summing up these views, said, "As I gather it, the consensus of this meeting is to advise the President that these measures should be laid over until the next Congress."

At this point, Morse, who had been listening in brooding silence, exploded with a roar.

"That may be the consensus of this meeting," he snapped, "but I want the record to show that it most emphatically is not mine. And that goes for the great majority of the American people, too. I couldn't disagree more with you."

If you are a Christian, the best thing that you can do for your neighbor is to introduce them to your best friend, Jesus. "He that winneth souls is wise."

you, and neither do they.

"What you propose is a betrayal of the heart of what the Democratic party and the Kennedy Administration stand for. The party and the Administration solemnly pledged to do their utmost to enact these measures. If you now pussyfoot and backslide, the party will be overwhelmingly defeated in this year's elections. I know the temper of the voters; they want action and you had better watch your step."

"It's been said here that most of the doctors are against the Medicare plan. But nothing has been said about most of the people being for it. We were told that a majority of the Senate is against the dividend and interest withholding tax. Maybe so. But that's no reason why this measure should be pigeonholed. That is a $600 million tax loophole, and it's time we plugged it up. The House approved it, and I see utterly no reason why the Senate shouldn't."

"You mark my word, you're asking for defeat by stalling and dodging these issues. You can't fool the voters. The great majority of them know what's going on, and they will be very tough on Democratic candidates if we haven't got the courage of our convictions and run for cover on these measures. I'm telling you, it's far better to go down fighting for them in the Senate than to shelve them and get licked by the voters."

With that scorching blast, the meeting concluded. What the next one will produce remains to be seen. It will probably be uneventful, as Morse won't be there. He is not being asked.

POLITICALS — Starting next week, President Kennedy is initiating a number of carefully photographed meetings with Democratic senatorial candidates to help them in their campaigns. Both still and motion pictures will be taken of these White House sessions, at which the individual candidates and the President will be photographed discussing "state and national problems." Similar picture-taking meetings are being arranged with Cabinet members, foremost among them Defense Secretary McNamara, Secretary of State Rusk, and Labor Secretary Goldberg. . . . Stumping Stars

Kennedy Most Political-Minded.
Eisenhower Least In Feud

John F. Kennedy, perhaps the most political-minded of all our presidents, and Dwight D. Eisenhower, who when in the White House seemed the least interested in politics of all our presidents, will be the stumping stars of their respective parties in this autumn's state and congressional records, it now is certain.

Any president of the United States can easily dominate his party's campaigns and is the most sought-after speaker. And President Kennedy is itching to hit the campaign trail for the Democratic cause, his political aides say. So far his own most ardent statement was that at a press conference: "I will be active in the fall, but we haven't fixed a definite schedule."

The "we" in the president's statement was taken to mean the Democratic campaign managers, and also implied that Mr. Kennedy would go where he could do the most good.

Ex-President Eisenhower, 27 years older than his successor in the White House, leaves no doubt with anyone who talks to him that he is anxious to wade into the Democrats on domestic economic policies as vigorously as he did a fortnight ago.

On that occasion, addressing 3,000 cheering persons at a fund-raising dinner in Washington, Eisenhower attributed glaring failure to the Kennedy administration, which he accused of floundering and thrashing aimlessly. In private talks since the former president has been even more trenchant, although he gave Kennedy a boost in his effort to win the big victory in the House on the tariff bill.

Except for Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona all of the field out of which the G. O. P. 1964 presidential nominee could conceivably come — Rockefeller in New York, Nixon in California, Romney in Michigan, Scranton in Pennsylvania and Seaton in Nebraska — will be busily occupied in their own gubernatorial races at the time the former president expects to celebrate his 72nd birthday rallying support for state and congressional tickets. Eisenhower will make his plans when he returns from Europe. One of the points Eisenhower may hit on the campaign highway is in his native state—Texas — where Republicans think they have a good chance to elect a governor.

Up to a month ago it was tacitly understood that the big Republican effort would be to install their gubernatorial candidates in the state houses of the larger states in the hopes of building organizations as can be done with state patronage.

Now, however, the Republicans think they have a real chance to unseat the House of Representatives, and, at all events, surely will make some gains. They are pinning their hopes partially on urban areas where they have been weak. It is in cities where the stock market slump has hit men and women of modest means hardest, they point out. Moreover, they say, Democratic policies have failed to provide job opportunities in these areas.

President Kennedy, of course, is anxious to see wins for such gubernatorial candidates as Brown in California, Dilworth in Pennsylvania, Swainson in Michigan, and DiSalle in Ohio and to do as well as possible against Rockefeller in New York, although he sees no real chance for a Democratic win there.

But the biggest stakes for the president personally is in Congress. There is no chance for the Senate, with its staggered system of electing only a third of its membership at a time, will be lost to the Democrats.

The president, of course, will be interested in the election of his brother, Edward to the Senate in Massachusetts. He indicated at his most recent press conference (by a slip of the tongue, some think) that he expected Edward to win the Massachusetts primary, and most authorities think he will. The president is also interested in the fortunes of three Democratic senators reported in deep trouble — Church in Idaho, Clark in Pennsylvania, Carroll in Colorado and Hickey in Wyoming.

It is the House of Representatives which the president regards as a possible sepulcher of administration legislation in the 88th Congress. He is not content merely for Democrats to hold the House reins. The Democratic majority in the present House—263 Democrats and 174 Republicans—is a paper one. He wants a Kennedy Congress.

The Democratic Congress, constituted as it is, contributed votes that gave him what he himself called a staggering defeat on the farm bill.

It will be interesting to see what Kennedy and Eisenhower can do for their parties when neither is himself on the ticket and Eisenhower out of office. Eisenhower's great popularity never rubbed off on his party. He carried through a small congressional majority in his first landslide.

At the first midterm election with Eisenhower in the White House the Democrats won the House of Representatives and held both the Senate and House in another Eisenhower landslide.

Kennedy as presidential candidate in 1960 did not run as well as the Democratic ticket farther down the scale. Democrats kept the Senate and House by hand-seated majorities although 20 Democratic House members were unseated the day Kennedy won his own close election.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Fears Insanity

Principal Danger Of Personal Habit Is Found In Worrying

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a 21-year-old college student. I am not only thoroughly ashamed of myself for indulging in occasional masturbation, but I have lately developed fears that I might be going insane. I hear conflicting reports that such self-indulgence is harmless; and others, that it may lead to degeneration and actual insanity. The fact that I realize that masturbation is a widespread habit among the young — and even among adults — doesn't lessen my problem. Will you comment? — X.

Comment: I will not enter into a discussion of the possible mental, emotional, moral and physical by-products of masturbation. To free you, and many others, of the fear that they walk the precipice of mental deterioration, neurosis, and actual insanity (and remember I am not condoning a habit which is usually self-limited and disappears in due time) let me quote fully from a piece which you may wish to read on page 698 of the May 26, 1962 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. It first appeared in the Journal of Mental Sciences in January, 1962, and was written by Dr. E. H. Hare:

"During the last 15 years of the 19th century, there was a great decline in the belief that masturbation could cause insanity and epilepsy. The belief still lingered in the writings of some older psychiatrists . . . but these were vestiges, and by the beginning of the 20th century the majority of writers had adopted the view of Kraepelin (1896) that insanity is never caused by onanism (masturbation). This together with the renewed interest in the neuroses aroused by the writings of Beard, Charcot, and Janet, raised into prominence the second aspect of the masturbatory hypothesis, the belief that masturbation was a common cause of neurotic disorders . . . The masturbatory hypothesis still finds a place in the psychiatric textbooks of the 'thirties, though the bold assertions of earlier decades are now emasculated and become coupled with the opinion that the harmful effects of masturbation are not due to the act itself but to worry over 'exaggerated opinions' of its consequences. By the irony of history, this view — that masturbation is harmful only if, from ignorance or misinformation, the patient worries about it — is all that now survives of the masturbatory hypothesis. Two centuries of indoctrination have taught the public a lesson which it can forget less quickly than can its teachers; and today the principal concern of medical writers on the subject is to persuade the public that its fears of the consequences of masturbation are groundless."

Comment: If carefully read, this erudite presentation of the problem will bring comfort to many who now needlessly walk in fear. (The volume of my mail attests to how much this problem bothers many youngsters throughout the land.) Neither will it—as so many might believe—bring so much relief from anxiety that it will further encourage the habit. By some curious logic, learning that masturbation did not cause insanity or other serious trouble, was often the main factor in the discontinuance of the habit.

So, to you distressed parents (who may have forgotten the problems of your own youth) and to youngsters who have become unnaturally introverted and fearful, I hope I have brought you some comfort and ease of mind and spirit. The habit? This too shall pass.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "When to Suspect Your Gall Bladder," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, c/o this newspaper.

Province Fears Loss Of Doctors

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—One of the most serious aspects of Saskatchewan's crisis is the threat of a mass exodus by the province's doctors.

They already are leaving in such numbers that many residents fear a crippling doctor shortage for months — perhaps years — regardless of the outcome of the current battle over the government's compulsory medical care plan.

The government is working to recruit replacements from abroad and from other parts of Canada, but most of the volunteers are coming on a temporary basis simply to help out in the emergency.

A great deal of mystery surrounds the comings and goings of the province's 700 practicing doctors at the moment, so it is difficult to get specific numbers and even harder to get such details as names.

Most of the doctors, except the 200 or so on emergency duty, are apparently on vacation, but no one will say where they are.

Unofficial reports, however, indicate that 20 doctors have left Saskatchewan within the last 24 hours. Four already have registered in British Columbia, 10 in Alberta, three in Manitoba, and two were investigating offers in Billings, Mont.

Some are leaving because of threats to their families.

One of these was Dr. David Berven, Swift Current coroner, who left for an undisclosed destination after he and other doctors in the area received threatening letters. He left a letter saying he had departed Saskatchewan because the situation was "not conducive to satisfactory medical practice."

Three other doctors in the southeastern part of the province announced they had left because of threats.

Doctors say it will be difficult to find permanent replacements because of the general shortage of physicians in Canada and because of the sympathy of the medical profession for the Saskatchewan doctors.

So far the government has succeeded in signing up only about 100 doctors.

A $10 bond for speeding was forfeited by J. H. Jones, 2306 Hawthorne St.

Two were fined for public drunkenness and a third case nolle prossed. Two were fined for running stop signs and two bonds forfeited. Two bonds also were forfeited for running red lights.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Three women pickets strolled through the downtown area Friday protesting any move toward desegregating lunch counters in downtown areas.

The New Orleans Citizens Council recently charged that there was a move in the works by some businessmen to take such action.

Signs carried by the pickets included those reading:

"It is ridiculous and stupid to run business and our economy via the destructive forces of integration."

"Keep white restaurants and white lunch counters for white only."

"Integration is another step toward world government. It kills free enterprise."

Inquiry Is Launched On Sugar Lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP)—A year-long far-ranging inquiry into how 91 far lobbyists hired by foreign governments to influence U.S. policy and get more foreign aid sugar quotas was voted Friday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the investigation would be far broader than one being undertaken by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee into efforts by highly paid foreign agents to influence this year's sugar legislation.

The committee plans to delve into many other activities of diplomatic representatives of foreign governments, most of them U.S. citizens, Fulbright said.

If the Senate approves the committee's $50,000 request for the inquiry, it is not expected to get under way fully until after Congress adjourns.

The Foreign Relations Committee resolution setting up the inquiry calls for its completion no later than next June 30, with an interim report to the Senate due Jan. 31.

Fulbright said the activities of registered foreign government agents trying to get bigger sugar quotas focused attention on the need for a full-scale inquiry.

It may well be that foreign governments have used non-diplomatic personnel to seek to increase the size of their aid programs, he added.

During the sugar bill debate, Fulbright had complained to the Senate that the lobbyists on Capitol Hill working on the sugar bill are as thick as flies.

He declared that foreign governments had hired outside representatives to try and change the administration's position on the legislation and to undermine the State Department in the eyes of

Auto Selling Pace Nears 1955 Record

DETROIT (AP)—Sales of new cars continued to show strength in June and pushed the total for the first six months to within two or three percentage points of the industry's record year of 1955.

Figures announced by the five domestic manufacturers Friday showed sales of 3,446,563 cars in the January-June period compared with official registrations of 3,519,629 in the first half of 1955. Registrations normally are slightly lower than announced sales.

Sales for June of 609,712 were the second best on record for the month, trailing only 1955. But they were down 7 per cent from May and also failed to equal either April or March.

A slight May-to-June drop is normal and any month over 600,000 total is considered very good. However, industry analysts were studying the figures closely in an effort to determine whether the decline was more than it should have been.

Sluggish Ford sales held the month down. A spokesman attributed this to two factors: delayed deliveries of popular models because of a strike which closed all Ford assembly plants for a week or more during the month, and a sales contest at Ford division which won't end until this month. Sales ordinarily jump at the end of a contest period.

Ford was the only manufacturer which failed to better its sales performance of last June. The industry as a whole was up 14 per cent.

For the six months all five companies showed improvement although Chrysler's was only a fraction of one per cent. General Motors was up 41 per cent, Ford 11 per cent and American Motors and Studebaker both 21 per cent.

Chevrolet was outstanding among the individual performers, setting industry records for both June and the six-month period. Chevrolet sold 218,394 cars in June and 1,140,427 in the first half of the year, up 19.1 per cent from the previous all-time record set by Chevrolet in 1960.

General Motors increased its share of the market for the six months from 49.5 per cent in 1960 to a whopping 55.8 per cent this year. Studebaker held even at 1.3 per cent and the other three companies lost ground. Ford slipped from 30.8 per cent to 27 per cent; Chrysler from 11.7 to 9.4 and American Motors from 6.7 per cent to 6.5.

The family flew here from Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington. The family is staying at the home of singer Martin Downey at Hyannis Port until the end of July. But the President will return to the White House Monday.

Southern Author Views Faulkner

(EDITORS NOTE — The following appreciation article on author William Faulkner, who died Friday, was written exclusively for The Associated Press by Eudora Welty, herself one of the great Southern authors of our time.)

By EUDORA WELTY

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—William Faulkner saw all the world in his fictional county where we can see it now—where he made it live.

His work is a triumph of vision. This vision, like life itself, has its light and dark, its time and place, and love and battle, its generations of feeling, and its long reaches of what happens to people out there and inside, in heart and mind, which is so much.

Of course he wrote what was more, and will remain more, than others knew before him; he has instructed as well as moved and amazed us, a great artist.

So unmistakably born out of knowledge of his own, out of sense and feeling (love, apprehension, outrage, compassion, pride, grief) for his own, his novels and stories were built at every step and stage out of his long passion of seeing the life he knew by seeing as well as he could into it and around it. All this required, and took, an imagination that has none incomparably the brightest in our firmament.

What is great and puny, what is tragic and uproarious about us all in our own dogged lives everywhere, is a living life itself on any page of his. And in literature it is this that matters and always will matter.

Humanity was his subject, but he was a poet when he was born to see what he saw. Laid, nearly all of it at home in Mississippi, his work has a poet's authority, by which it travels the world and puts the world to measure. Indeed, these days, it seems itself when the world does not.

We have learned lately that it sank into the bones of the Japanese as readily as into ours here. Though once you could buy his books in France, I believe, and not in New York, except with luck at second-hand, and not anywhere in Jackson, Miss.

But now everyone who reads for his own, his novels and stories must have found out that in "Spot-Tested Horses," for example, William Faulkner wrote one of the funniest things in all the world.

Province Fears Loss Of Doctors

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—One of the most serious aspects of Saskatchewan's crisis is the threat of a mass exodus by the province's doctors.

They already are leaving in such numbers that many residents fear a crippling doctor shortage for months — perhaps years—regardless of the outcome of the current battle over the government's compulsory medical care plan.

The government is working to recruit replacements from abroad and from other parts of Canada. Most of the volunteers are coming on a temporary basis simply to help out in the emergency.

A great deal of mystery surrounds the comings and goings of the province's 700 practicing doctors at the moment, so it is difficult to get specific numbers and even harder to get such details as names.

Most of the doctors, except the 200 or so on emergency duty, are supposedly on vacation, but no one will say where they are.

Unofficial reports, however, indicate at least 20 doctors have left Saskatchewan within the last 24 hours. Four already have registered in British Columbia, 10 in Alberta, three in Manitoba, and two were investigating offers in Billings, Mont.

Some are leaving because of threats to their families.

One of these was Dr. David Bervane, Swift Current coroner, who left for an undisclosed destination after he and other doctors in the area received threatening letters. He left a letter saying he had departed Saskatchewan because the situation was "not conducive to satisfactory medical practice."

Three other doctors in the southwestern part of the province announced they had left because of threats.

Doctors say it will be difficult to find permanent replacements because of the general shortage of physicians in Canada and because of the sympathy of the Saskatchewan doctors.

So far the government has succeeded in signing up only about

Traffic Fines, Sentences Given In City Court

Traffic violations occupied a large part of Friday's docket in Monroe city court in activity which also included cases of simple escape, damage to property and simple battery.

For simple escape, Judge W. Harper handed down compulsory sentences of 90 and 60 days respectively against Negroes Henry Little, 19, 3511 Pippin St. and Willie Miles, 17, 116 S. 8th St. The damage to property charge resulted in a $25 bond forfeiture by another Negro, Lucas Gayton. Nolle prossed was a simple battery count against 34 year old Negro Hamp Jones, 205 S. 17th St., and Henry Dore, 37, 804 St. John St., was released from a peace warrant on taking oath.

Forfeiting $25 bond for reckless driving were E. A. Martin, 404 Bayou Oaks, I. L. Barrow, 306 Crosley, West Monroe; Charles H. Hand, Route 2, box 100, Winnfield; and Negro A. M. Murry, 413 N. 25th St. Dovie Purcell, 206 Oaktree Dr., Houston, Tex., was fined $5 or five days on the same charge, and a count of reckless driving on R. T. Henry, Box 117, Dubach, was nolle prossed.

A $10 bond for speeding was forfeited by J. H. Jones, 2306 Hawthorne St.

Three Women Pickets March In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Three women pickets strolled through the downtown area Friday protesting any move toward desegregating lunch counters in downtown stores.

The New Orleans Citizens Council recently charged that there was a move in the works by some businessmen to take such action. Signs carried by the pickets included those reading:

"It is ridiculous and stupid to ruin business and our economy via the destructive forces of integration."

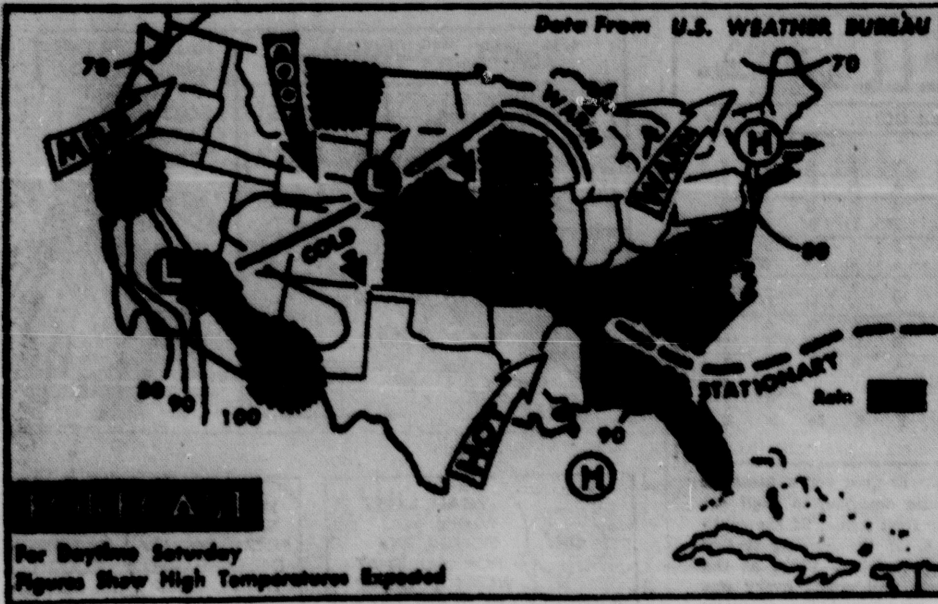

"Keep white restaurants and white lunch counters for white only."

"Integration is another step toward world government. It kills free enterprise."

Monroe To Get New Air Service

Non-stop flights between Monroe and Houston, Tex., will begin Aug. 1 by Trans-Texas Airways. Louis Smith, chairman of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, announced Friday.

Smith said that time on the Con-air flights will be approximately one and one-half hours. Definite flight schedules will be released later this month by TTA. Officials pointed out, however, that a flight will leave Monroe for Houston in the morning with a flight from Houston to Monroe in the afternoon.

SCATTERED SHOWERS are forecast Saturday for Central Plains and upper Mississippi Valley southeastward through Ohio Valley and Tennessee Valley and the South Atlantic states. Scattered thunderstorms are expected over portions of northern and southern Plateau states. A few showers are due for portions of northern California. It should be warmer over most areas east of the Mississippi. (AP Wirephoto Map)

FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS

Inquiry Is Launched On Sugar Lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP)—A year-long, far-ranging inquiry into how far lobbyists hired by foreign governments go to influence U.S. policy and get more foreign aid or sugar quotas was voted Friday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the investigation would be far broader than one being undertaken by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee into efforts by highly paid foreign agents to influence this year's sugar legislation.

The committee plans to delve into many other activities of non-diplomatic representatives of foreign governments, most of them U.S. citizens, Fulbright said.

If the Senate approves the committee's $50,000 request for the inquiry, it is not expected to get under way fully until after Congress adjourns. The Judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., plans to start to probe within a few days.

The Foreign Relations Committee resolution setting up the broader inquiry calls for its completion no later than next June 30, with an interim report to the Senate due Jan. 31.

Fulbright said the activities of registered foreign government agents trying to get bigger sugar quotas focused attention on the need for a full-scale inquiry.

"It may well be that foreign governments have used nondiplomatic personnel to seek to increase the size of their aid programs," he added.

During the sugar bill debate, Fulbright had complained to the Senate that the "lobbyists on Capitol Hill working on the sugar bill are as thick as flies."

He declared that foreign governments had hired outside representatives to try and change the administration's position on the legislation and to "undermine our State Department in the eyes of

Auto Selling Pace Nears 1955 Record

HINTS FROM Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When stitching heavy seams on your machine, rub them with a piece of hard bar soap. The needle will go through the material and won't break.

When stamped labels or stamps stick together, they can be loosened by applying a hot iron.

To remove rust from a needle, push it through a piece of flannel saturated with machine oil. The rust will disappear.

When I put my candles in their holders, I heat the socket of the holder with hot water and then press the candle in. It sticks better this way.

If clothes are scorched, wet the scorched part, cover with cornstarch and rub in well. Let dry. When dry, remove cornstarch and scorch will have disappeared.

Mix a few grains of sugar with soap lather to remove grease and grime from the hands.

CHARLOTTE SMITH

DEAR HELOISE:

Punch several holes in the metal lid of a couple of small glass jars. Put about a half inch layer of regular cooking soda in the jars, put the lids back on and put jars in the back of the refrigerator... a shell or so apart. The refrigerator will smell sweet and clean.

I only change my soda every four or five months but this will depend on the kind of food kept in one's refrigerator and frequency of cleaning.

HELEN YUDER

DEAR HELOISE:

I cover my wire coat hangers with masking tape. This prevents the clothing from sliding off the hanger and also prevents rust theme!

S. W.

DEAR HELOISE:

Your suggestion to clean the bathtub with the broom just about fractured me! Now I can sweep the sand and cleanser down the drain in seconds. Did you know a broom's even better for the shower stall?

MARY LOU ROBERTSON

DEAR HELOISE:

I worked in a Catholic hospital and learned from the nuns how to starch my cap. Wash cap, let dry and then starch it. Spread on counter top or refrigerator door. I use starch full strength. If the cap is dry before starching it will be much stiffer.

Here's the way I get Dacron and Nylon white. Put clothes in washer, use hot water, add about one cup of automatic dishwasher detergent. Do NOT add any soap. Run through complete cycle.

Turn machine back to wash, add usual soap or detergent and let machine go through the complete cycle again. This even gets collars and cuffs clean.

After the clothes are white, one will only need to do this occasionally. This also removes the stains on children's play clothes.

READER

It works! Anyone know why?

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: I have found that if I dress up to do my ironing that I feel better and the ironing seems to fly by much faster.

If I look terrible, I feel per-secuted and the ironing drags. Just a new wrinkle on the old hanger and also prevents rust theme!

NURSE

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If a husband she certainly knows it by now and wife tried for years to have a child and they failed, and they went to several doctors who all agreed there was nothing wrong with either of them, and if the child had been hurt badly when wife stepped out and got in a grown-up, see her for the first family way and had a strong, healthy boy who the husband thought was his, should the husband and son be told? The boy is now a senior in high school and we love him more than anything on this earth. This has been on my conscience for 17 years. They say that confession is good for the soul.

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you feel the need to confess, confess to your clergyman. Tell him your husband and son would serve no good purpose.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother-in-law. She refuses to be called "Grandma." She wants to be called "Mamma" - which is what my children call me!

My own mother doesn't mind being called "Grandma." How can you explain to small children that they are both grandmothers, but one should be called "Mamma"? I don't want to stir up trouble but don't know how to avoid it. The grandmother who thinks she is too young to be called "Grandma" is in her fifties. My own mother is in her late forties.

IN THE MIDDLE:

DEAR IN: No grandmother should insist on being called "Mamma." Tell your children to call her "Grandma Mary" or whatever her name is! If she feels that being called "Grandma" ages her.

DEAR ABBY: I have an extremely sensitive 12-year-old daughter. She is very big for her age, and from the number Mayor Robert Wagner and his of times she has heard it from family in special audience Fri-

adults who should know better, day

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to reveal your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

THE GOLF CART A BOON

When golf carts became available at our Lake Zurich club, many members were able to resume their favorite game. Those with heart trouble or chronic lung disorders could play without developing chest pain, shortness of breath, or cough. Furthermore, they were able to get around the course sooner because carts travel faster than walkers.

Golfing is considered one of our safest forms of recreation and exercise. But every year men have heart attacks, perforated ulcers, or stroke while playing or immediately thereafter.

Golf is blamed but in many instances the attack would have occurred whether the individual was home, at the office, or at the country club. The game was coincidental and "this number was up," as the saying goes.

But this is not true of the person who has been warned not to overexert, walk uphill, or become overheated, excited, or angry. The heart and circulation take a beating when playing on hot days and in direct sunlight. This is too much for those with high blood pressure, coronary heart disease, or poor circulation. Playing after drinking or eating too much also adds to the risk.

All golfers should dress in keeping with the weather of the day, the temperature, humidity, and wind. More protection is needed for the light-skinned person who is sensitive to sunlight. Don a suitable hat and apply a cosmetic sun cream to all uncovered areas. Take a hint from the farmer and attack an umbrella to the golf cart.

The type of skin protection depends upon the degree of sensitivity to ultraviolet. There are creams that are not unsightly and offer maximum protection. The sunburn or psoriasis pills are used only by those who are extremely sensitive to the sun.

The noise comes from the fibrous tissues or roughened vertebrae in the neck. It is comparable to the squeaking and clicking that occurs in other joints. It has been demonstrated, via electronic sound devices, that all joints make some noise when moved.

PRESSURE TUBE

A. G. writes: Why do doctors put a rubber tube around the arm when taking the blood pressure?

REPLY
The tube is filled with air until the pressure is high enough to shut off the flow of blood thru the arteries. At this point, the pressure in the tube and arteries is the same and corresponds to the systolic blood pressure.

FAMILY CREAM
C. W. writes: I have very dry skin and my wife suggested I use some of her cold cream that contains estrogen. Do you think this would feminize me?

REPLY
No, I doubt it enough of the female hormone would be absorbed thru the skin to make you bluish. Ordinary cold cream is cheap, so why borrow from your wife unless she wants to get rid of it?

OILY NOSEDROPS
W. E. writes: Can nosedrops with an oil base get into the lungs and cause pneumonia?

REPLY
Yes, but this is a problem mainly among infants and small children. The nose is short and occasionally the drops to directly into the lungs.

Judge's Order Prevents Bank From Opening

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge issued an order Friday which, in effect, prevents the opening of a proposed Whitney National Bank of Jefferson Parish in Louisiana.

U. S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff issued the preliminary injunction, stopping the comptroller of currency from issuing a final certificate authorizing the bank.

A group of Louisiana state banks asked the order, contending the new bank would be nothing but a branch of the big Whitney National Bank of New Orleans, neighboring Jefferson.

Judge Holtzoff said he considered it desirable to maintain a status quo in the complicated legal dispute. He emphasized he was not expressing an opinion on the legality of the proposed action by the comptroller.

HINTS FROM Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
When stitching heavy seams on your machine, rub them with a piece of hard bar soap. The needle will go through the material and won't break.
When stamped labels or stamps stick together, they can be loosened by applying a hot iron.
To remove rust from a needle, push it through a piece of flannel saturated with machine oil. The rust will disappear.
When I put my candles in their holders, I heat the socket of the holder with hot water and then press the candle in. It sticks better this way.
If clothes are scorched, wet the scorched part, cover with cornstarch and rub in well. Let dry. When dry, remove cornstarch and scorch will have disappeared.
Mix a few grains of sugar with soap lather to remove grease and grime from the hands.
CHARLOTTE SMITH
DEAR HELOISE:
Punch several holes in the metal lid of a couple of small glass jars. Put about a half inch layer of regular cooking soda in the jars, put the lids back on and put jars in the back of the refrigerator... a shelf or so apart. The refrigerator will smell sweet and clean.
I only change my soda every four or five months but this will depend on the kind of food kept in one's refrigerator and frequency of cleaning.
HELEN YUDER
DEAR HELOISE:
I cover my wire coat hangers with masking tape. This prevents the clothing from sliding off the hanger and also prevents rust.
S. W.

DEAR HELOISE:
Your suggestion to clean the bathtub with the broom just about fractured me! Now I can sweep the sand and cleansers down the drain in seconds. Did you know a broom's even better for the shower stall?
MARY LOU ROBERTSON
DEAR HELOISE:
I worked in a Catholic hospital and learned from the nuns how to starch my cap. Wash cap, let dry and then starch it. Spread on counter top or refrigerator door. I use starch full strength. If the cap is dry before starching it will be much stiffer.
Here's the way I get Dacron and Nylon white: Put clothes in washer, use hot water, add about one cup of automatic dishwasher detergent. Do not add any soap. Run through complete cycle.
Turn machine back to wash, add usual soap or detergent and let machine go through the complete cycle again. This even gets collars and cuffs clean.
After the clothes are white, one will only need to do this occasionally. This also removes the stains on children's play clothes.
READER
It works! Anyone know why?
HELOISE
DEAR HELOISE:
I have found that if I dress up to do my ironing that I feel better and the ironing seems to fly by much faster.
If I look terrible, I feel persecuted and the ironing drags. Just a new wrinkle on the old theme!
NURSE

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If a husband and wife tried for years to have a child and they failed, and they went to several doctors who all agreed there was nothing wrong with either of them, and if the wife stepped out and got in a family way and had a strong, healthy boy who the husband thought was his, should the husband and son be told? The boy is now a senior in high school and we love him more than anything on this earth. This has been on my conscience for 17 years. They say that confession is good for the soul.
MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: If you feel the need to confess, confess to your clergyman. Telling your husband and son would serve no good purpose.
DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother-in-law. She refuses to be called "Grandma." She wants to be called "Mamma" — which is what my children call me!
My own mother doesn't mind being called "Grandma." How can you explain to small children that they are both grandmothers, but one should be called "Mamma"? I don't want to stir up trouble but don't know how to avoid it. The grandmother who thinks she is too young to be called "Grandma" is in her fifties. My own mother is in her late forties.
IN THE MIDDLE
DEAR IN: No grandmother should insist on being called "Mamma." Tell your children to call her "Grandma Mary" or whatever her name is! If she feels that being called "Grandma" ages her.
DEAR ABBY: I have an extremely sensitive 12-year-old daughter. She is very big for her age, and from the number of times she has heard it from adults who should know better,

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

THE GOLF CART A BOON
When golf carts became available at our Lake Zurich club, many members were able to resume their favorite game. Those with heart trouble or chronic lung disorders could play without developing chest pain, shortness of breath, or cough. Furthermore, they were able to get around the course sooner because carts travel faster than walkers.
Golfing is considered one of our safest forms of recreation and exercise. But every year men have heart attacks, perforated ulcer, or stroke while playing or immediately thereafter.
Golf is blamed by in the many instances the attack would have occurred whether the individual was home, at the office, or at the country club. The game was coincidental and "his number was up," as the saying goes.
But this is not true of the person who has been warned not to overexert, walk uphill, or become overheated, excited, or angry. The heart and circulation take a beating when playing on hot days and in direct sunlight. This is too much for those with high blood pressure, coronary heart disease, or poor circulation. Playing after drinking or eating too much also adds to the risk.
All golfers should dress in keeping with the weather of the day—the temperature, humidity, and wind. More protection is needed for the light-skinned person who is sensitive to sunlight. Don a suitable hat and apply a cosmetic sun cream to all uncovered areas. Take a hint from the farmer and attack an umbrella to the golf cart.
The type of skin protection depends upon the degree of sensitivity to ultraviolet. There are creams that are not unsightly and offer maximum protection. The suntan or psoralen pills are used only by those who are extremely sensitive to the sun.

ESTES INVESTIGATION

2 Farm Officials Admit To Lying

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two middle-aged farm officials from Oklahoma told Senate investigators Friday they had under oath when they denied taking $1,000 in a Billie Sol Estes cotton-shipment deal.

Louis N. Dumas and Arthur Daniel Stone admitted also they did not report the money on their income tax returns.

Their voices barely audible in the hushed hearing room, the two men said they had resigned from the Agriculture Department of

Real Estate Transfers

The following real estate transfers are on record in the office of the Oklahoma county clerk:

Daley Jenkins Marbury sold to J. M. Marbury all her interest in the northeast quarter and the northwest quarter of the south-east quarter of section 12, township 12 north, range 1 east, for $100.

Carson Moore sold to Willie Lee Moore lot 1 of block 3 of the J. W. Johnson Addition to Monroe for $1,100.

B. A. Baker lot 1 of block 3 of the J. W. Johnson Addition to Monroe for $1,100.

George A. Carson sold to Robert J. Carson lot 1 of block 3 of the J. W. Johnson Addition to Monroe for $1,100.

Charles A. Carson sold to Robert J. Carson lot 1 of block 3 of the J. W. Johnson Addition to Monroe for $1,100.

William Williams and Charles Williams sold to Andrew W. Young and Joe David Cagle two acres in the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 5, township 17 north, range 4 east, for $12,500.

William Williams and Charles Williams sold to Andrew W. Young and Joe David Cagle two acres in the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 5, township 17 north, range 4 east, for $12,500.

Tim Williams and Charles Williams sold to Andrew W. Young and Joe David Cagle two acres in the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 5, township 17 north, range 4 east, for $12,500.

Tim Williams and Charles Williams sold to Andrew W. Young and Joe David Cagle two acres in the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 5, township 17 north, range 4 east, for $12,500.

The Senate Investigation subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., is digging into transfer of more than 3,000 acres of cotton acreage allotments to Estes from farmers whose land had been taken for public projects.

After a lengthy investigation, the Agriculture Department declared the switch illegal and fined the 37-year-old Pecos, Tex., financier more than half a million dollars. The penalty still is under appeal within the department.

Dumas and Stone told their story haltingly, with tears in their eyes. Both are bald and both were shirt-sleeved. Stone wore no tie.

They admitted giving an Estes agent the names of McIntosh County farmers who had been replaced by public projects. The two lacked authority to transfer the cotton allotments but Estes later got 228.1 acres of McIntosh County allotments. The money Dumas and Stone received represented payment at $5 an acre—plus an unexplained 30 cents.

Both men insisted they thought they were providing only information that was available to the public.

Dumas read a prepared statement detailing his confession. Stone was so shaken that McClellan stepped in and read his statement for him.

Rail Manpower Struggle Heads For Showdown

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A protracted battle over rail manpower—with more than 40,000 jobs at stake—headed toward a showdown Friday as a spokesman for the railroad announced plans to put disputed labor economies into effect as soon as possible.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, responded to the announcement with charges that the railroad have been trying all along to "precipitate a transportation crisis." He said the railroad "can be expected to push the issue to a strike stage."

The railroad contend they seek only to eliminate "featherbedding"—the use of men on jobs where they are not needed—and have accused the unions of a "public-harmful attitude toward the national interest."

Gilbert was one of five union chiefs representing some 200,000 on-train employees who met here Friday to consider an offer from the National Mediation Board to arbitrate the dispute.

Colts Take 2-0 Win Over Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Houston Colts made effective use of their hits Friday night as they defeated the Cincinnati Reds 2-0 before 15,871.

The loss was charged to Joey Jay (11-8), who held the Colts to four hits during seven innings of work. But three of these came in the second inning, starting with Norm Larker's single through the box.

Next Leo Cardenas made an excellent stop of Carl Warwick's drive, but threw wild to second in an effort to force Larker. Both runners advanced, Larker scoring on Merritt Rane's line-out. Warwick crossed the plate on Bob Lillis' single and Jay struck out the next two batters to end the inning.

The Reds got the tying run on base several times, but Hal Woodeschick managed to retire them each time in spite of four Houston errors.

Crack Two Home Runs Each Again

MINNEAPOLIS, St. Paul (AP)—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle each cracked two home runs to power the New York Yankees to a 7-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night before 40,944, the biggest crowd of the season here.

The triumph in the opener of a three-game series kept the Yankees within a half game of the lead in the American League.

Maris' two blows into the right field bleachers, one with two men aboard in the first inning, produced four runs. The two sluggers' six runs gave right-hander Ralph Terry his 11th victory in 16 decisions with relief help from Luis Arroyo.

Mantle's two whacks, also into the right field bleachers, came in his first two times at bat. He tied a major league record for homers in four consecutive times at bat. He hit a pair in his last two trips to the plate in a 7-3 win over Kansas City Wednesday.

Mantle matched a feat accomplished by 11 other major leaguers. The last to duplicate the record was another Yankee, Johnny Blanchard, last season.

The Yankees roughed Twins starter Camilo Pascual for four runs in the first inning on a pair of identical towering homers by Maris and Mantle. Maris' first blow, his 20th of the season, came with Tom Tresh and Bobby Richardson aboard. Mantle's initial homer followed.

Maris hit his 21st with none on in the fifth, while Mantle clubbed his 17th with the bases empty in the third.

Pascual, going for his 13th triumph, was lifted in the fourth after yielding six New York runs. He struck out four to raise his league-leading total to 110.

The Twins touched Terry for three runs in the third on Zoilo Versalles' run-scoring single and Rich Rollins' two-run triple. Pinch-hitter George Banks hit a solo home run in the fifth.

FOR STOLEN BASES

Maury Wills Isn't After Cobb's Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Maury Wills, a little guy who achieves satisfaction beveling rival pitchers and catchers, already has stolen 46 bases in 1962. He hasn't been thrown out in his past 18 tries.

Yet the daring shortstop of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Friday he hasn't any sights on Ty Cobb's modern base stealing record of 96 in a season.

Crowds even in rival parks shout "go, go" when he gets on base and Maury seems glad to oblige. Unless Manager Walt Alston signals Wills definitely not to go, he is on his own whether to attempt a theft. That's why he doesn't aim for records.

"If I were just going after a record, I might have 10 more than I do."

"When I get on base, I don't think any pitcher can hold me or any catcher can throw me out. Have any fear of the pitcher or catcher and you have two strikes against you. I take the opposite view. I don't think anything can stop me."

For comparison, the lead stealers in the American League, Jake Wood of Detroit and Dick Howser of Kansas City, have only 19 each. Maury's teammate, Willie Davis, is second in the National League with 18.

The switch hitting shortstop may find himself with a league record, since 80 is tops for players since 1900. The mark was set by Bob Bescher of Cincinnati in 1911. Before the turn of the century, players would top 100.

In Thursday's 11-3 victory over the second place Giants in Candlestick Park, Wills stole twice and scored first to second in the eighth, accompanied by the San Francisco crowd's "go go" despite a 9-3 lead. He doesn't figure that was taking an unnecessary change, explaining, "I have respect for the Giants hitting. With a club like that, six runs aren't enough."

Jeffcoat Wilts Monroe By 3-0

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

Bernice's Bobby Jeffcoat limited the league leading Monroe squad to two hits here Friday night and singled to drive in a run as Bernice swept to a 3-0 victory in Fifth District American Legion play.

The Bernice squad handed Brown-Rivers-Scogin their second straight loss of the season by pushing three runs across the plate in the second and holding the usually powerful hitting Monroe team to two hits in a fast moving game. The tilt lasted only one hour and 45 minutes.

Jeffcoat retired the first 11 men he faced in order before Monroe centerfielder Charley Biggar beat out a well placed bunt to collect the first safety off the port-sided hurler.

The visitors gained the inning edge in the top of the second stanza on Jeffcoat's single, two Monroe errors and two fielder's choices.

Fast moving centerfielder Freddy Dawson, who hauled in flies most of the night and made a double play out of the one he didn't catch, drew a walk from Monroe starter Randall Fallin in the big inning to start the rally.

Jeffcoat followed with his single, after Ricky Abritton reached first on first baseman Carl Guinn's error, to drive in Dawson. Johnny Buckley's fielder's choice scored Abritton from third. Jeffcoat scored after reaching third on Jimmy Gray's unplayed fielder's choice when a ball intended to catch him off second went past Ed Quimby.

Jeffcoat added his fourth win of the season to his credit against no losses. Bernice is now 6-8 for the season with two games still on the slate.

The defeat gave Brown-Rivers-Scogin a 11-2 record in season play with three games remaining.

Fallin, 3-0, going into the game took his first loss of the year. Dawson ended an possibility of a Monroe rally in the fifth frame when he dropped a high fly ball off the bat of Gary Futch after sprinting 50 yards and coming behind second base. Quickly recovering the horsehide he whipped it to third baseman, Ronnie Fitzgerald who tossed it to second baseman Sammy Johnson, in time for the double play before Monroe runners knew the force was on.

Brown-Rivers-Scogin threatened to rally again in the sixth when Joe Canal reached first on an error with one away. Biggar's fielder's choice forced Canal. Catcher Eddie Kincaid then drew his second walk of the night off Jeffcoat, who gave up only two putting runners on first and second. A long throw from deep short to first beat Guinn and retired the side.

Crack Two Home Runs Each Again

MINNEAPOLIS, St. Paul (AP) — Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle each cracked two home runs to power the New York Yankees to a 7-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night before 40,944, the biggest crowd of the season here.

The triumph in the opener of a three-game series kept the Yanks within a half game of the lead in the American League.

Maris' two blows into the right field bleachers, one with two men aboard in the first inning, produced four runs. The two sluggers' six runs gave right-hander Ralph Terry his 11th victory in 18 decisions with relief help from Luis Arroyo.

Mantle's two whacks, also into the right field bleachers, came in his first two times at bat. He tied a major league record for homers in four consecutive times at bat. He hit a pair in his last two trips to the plate in a 7-3 win over Kansas City Wednesday.

Mantle matched a feat accomplished by 11 other major leaguers. The last to duplicate the record was another Yankee, Johnny Blanchard, last season.

The Yankees roughed Twins starter Camilo Pascual for four runs in the first inning on a pair of identical towering homers by Maris and Mantle. Maris' first blow, his 20th of the season, came with Tom Tresh and Bobby Richardson aboard. Mantle's initial homer followed.

Maris hit his 21st with none on in the fifth, while Mantle clubbed his 17th with the bases empty in the third.

Pascual, going for his 13th triumph, was lifted in the fourth after yielding six New York runs. He struck out four to raise his league-leading total to 110.

The Twins touched Terry for three runs in the third on Zoilo Versalles' run-scoring single and Rich Rollins' two-run triple. Pinch-hitter George Banks hit a solo home run in the fifth.

Ken Holt, Jr. won the first flight with a meet total of 267, in front of Ed Solomon with a 279.

Both Peddy and Mulhern finished with 226 totals for the 54-holes. Henry Cole of Monroe was third, one off the pace with a 227 for the two-day tourney.

Peddy, who was also tournament medalist, got off a tremendous 307-yard drive in the second hole of the playoff. Mulhern's effort, a 300-yarder, was a little in the rough, but both boys then hit wedge shots on the green; Peddy's eight-foot putt from the pin; Mulhern's four. And the stage was set for the final climax.

Losing his lead at the turn in the second of two 18-hole rounds Friday, Peddy sank another eight-foot putt on the 18th hole for his 33 and the tie.

Peddy's card for Friday showed a 76-74-150. He shot a 76 the opening day for a two-stroke advantage over Mulhern. In turn, Mulhern caught up well Friday, shooting a 76 on the first 18 and a two-over 72 on the second 18 for 148.

Cole did even better getting a 73-74-147 Friday for his third place position.

Fourth place went to Rickie Highland, Monroe, who carded 77-80-157 Friday for a 238 total.

Terry Paddy, brother of Wayne, shot an 81-88-169 for fifth. The five-foot Peddy, who weighs 80 pounds, had an 84 the previous day to make a 253 total.

Tallulah's Ed Green was forced to drop out after the first round Friday because of illness. The first four winners advance to the State Jaycee meet in Minden, July 18-20.

FOR STOLEN BASES

Maury Wills Isn't After Cobb's Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Maury Wills, a little guy who achieves satisfaction bedeviling rival pitchers and catchers, already has stolen 46 bases in 1962. He hasn't been thrown out in his past 18 tries.

Yet the daring shortstop of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Friday he hasn't any sights on Ty Cobb's modern base stealing record of 96 in a season.

Crowds even in rival parks shout "go, go" when he gets on base and Maury seems glad to oblige. Unless Manager Walt Alston signals Wills definitely not to go, he is on his own on whether to attempt a theft. That's why he doesn't aim for records.

"If I were just going after a record, I might have 10 more than I do."

"When I get on base, I don't think any pitcher can hold me or any catcher can throw me out. Have any fear of the pitcher or catcher and you have two strikes against you. I take the opposite view. I don't think anything can stop me."

For comparison, the lead stealers in the American League, Jake Wood of Detroit and Dick Howser of Kansas City, have only 19 each. Maury's teammate, Willie Davis, is second in the National League with 18.

The switch hitting shortstop may find himself with a league record, since 80 is tops for players since 1900. The mark was set by Bob Bescher of Cincinnati in 1911. Before the turn of the century, players would top 100.

In Thursday's 11-3 victory over the second place Giants at Candlestick Park, Wills stole twice and scored first to second in the eighth, accompanied by the San Francisco crowd's "go go" despite a 9-3 lead. He doesn't figure that was taking an unnecessary chance, explaining, "I have respect for the Giants hitting. With a club like that, six runs aren't enough."

Jeffcoat Wilts Monroe By 3-0

By STUART HILL World Sports Writer

Bernice's Bobby Jeffcoat limited the league leading Monroe squad to two hits here Friday night and singled to drive in a run as Bernice swept to a 3-0 victory in Fifth District American Legion play.

The Bernice squad handed Brown-Rivers-Scogin their second straight loss of the season by pushing three runs across the plate in the second and holding the usually powerful hitting Monroe team to two hits in a fast moving game. The tilt lasted only one hour and 45 minutes.

Jeffcoat retired the first 11 men he faced in order before Monroe centerfielder Charley Bigaar beat out a well placed bunt to collect the first safety off the port-sided hurler.

The visitors gained the inning edge in the top of the second stanza on Jeffcoat's single, two Monroe errors and two fielder's choices.

Fast moving centerfielder Freddy Dawson, who hauled in flies most of the night and made a double play out of the one he didn't catch, drew a walk from Monroe starter Randall Fallin in the big inning to start the rally.

Jeffcoat followed with his single, after Ricky Albritton reached first on first baseman Carl Guinn's error, to drive in Dawson. Johnny Buckley's fielder's choice scored Albritton. From third, Jeffcoat scored after reaching third on Jimmy Gray's unplayed fielder's choice when a ball intended to catch him off second went past Ed Quimby.

Jeffcoat added his fourth win of the season to his credit against no losses. Bernice is now 6-8 for the season with two games still on the slate.

The defeat gave Brown-Rivers-Scogin a 11-2 record in season play with three games remaining.

Fallin, 3-0, going into the game took his first loss of the year.

Dawson ended any possibility of a Monroe rally in the fifth frame when he dropped a high fly ball off the bat of Gary Futch after sprinting 50 yards and coming behind second base. Quickly recovering the horsehide he whipped it to third baseman, Ronnie Fitzgerald who tossed it to second baseman Sammy Johnson, in time for the double play before Monroe runners knew the force was on.

Brown-Rivers-Scogin threatened to rally again in the sixth when Joe Canal reached first on an error with one away. Bigaar's fielder's choice forced Canal. Catcher Eddie Kincaid then drew his second walk of the night off Jeffcoat, who gave up only two, putting runners on first and second. A long throw from second short to first beat Guinn and retired the side.

Bernice's 3-0 victory over Monroe was the first since the team's 1-2 loss to the Browns in the first game of the season.

COST OF LIVING RISES

Argentina Begins Bonds Campaign

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina launched a bond selling campaign Friday that includes whitewashing black money.

The campaign was launched as the cost of living rose, workers occupied a metal factory which had closed for lack of business, and the secretary of agriculture promised emergency measures to counteract the effects of six months of drought in the heart of the cattle belt.

The whitewashing operation was announced by the Ministry of Economy in an effort to assure success of a $45-million "patriotic loan" on Independence Day, July 9. Other issues are planned later. He must keep the bonds at least three months.

—Pay a tax of 5 to 10 per cent on the black capital and then invest the remainder in any enterprise he chooses. Again, no questions will be asked.

Some economists estimated a billion dollars in black capital is available in Argentina or has been sent abroad. The government hopes to bring it into the open for much needed investment.

From the money the government hopes to pay back salaries to government workers, largely unpaid in the three months since the crisis over the ouster of former President Arturo Frondizi, and pay up operating debts.

With the whitewashing, current bank loan interest rates will be increased from the present 10 per cent to 15 per cent, and savings accounts interest increased from the present 5 per cent to a per cent.

The government also announced it will help private enterprise seek reorganization and consolidation of private loans from abroad.

Minister of Economy Alvaro Alsogaray said his aim is to solve a major part of the country's financial crisis before he goes to Washington on July 11. He declared the problem of the 1962 and 1963 budgets must be solved with Argentine funds. A deficit of 4 billion pesos is expected in this budget.

He was quoted as saying there is no reason why the peso can't be stabilized at from 100 to 105 to the dollar. It was 127 to the dollar Thursday after reaching a low of 135 to the dollar a week ago.

He added the navy had agreed to cooperate in cutting expenses by selling a new building which cost one billion pesos.

Meanwhile, the cost of living rose 2.7 per cent in June, it was announced.

The 111 employees of the Metal-roca plant occupied the factory which had been closed for a month because of slow business and announced they would operate it themselves. The metalworkers union threatened Thursday to occupy plants, claiming 50,000 of its members have been laid off in three months. The meat workers union also has issued a call to occupy plants, but no action has been reported.

Agriculture Secretary Cesar Izmaico Urien, after a quick tour of the worst drought-stricken areas announced to a meeting of 400 ranchers at Coronel Suarez a relief program involving $25 million in emergency credits for farmers to pay their debts and increase wheat planting. He also promised arrangements to permit the National Grain Board to sell low-priced forage to cattlemen and for the state railways to reduce 25 per cent of the cost of shipping livestock from one area to another.

The drought has forced cattlemen to rush underweight stock to market at a time when exports for foreign currency are most needed. Agricultural products make up 90 per cent of Argentina's exports. Hundreds of cattle have died before they could be unloaded from trucks which have formed long waiting lines at markets.

OAS Officer Dies Before Firing Squad

PARIS (UPI)—An ex-Foreign Legion officer convicted of master-minding wholesale murder operations by Secret Army (OAS) terrorists in Algeria was shot by a firing squad Friday as he sang the Marseillaise.

His attorney said the execution was bungled and that he died in agony.

Witnesses said Lt. Roger Deguelre, 37, clasped a French tricolor to his breast and was loudly intoning the French national anthem when he was felled by bullets of a 12-man military squad at Fort D'Ivry just south of Paris.

Defense attorney Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancourt, one of the witnesses, claimed the firing squad botched the job and that Deguelre died in "agony" because the volley of bullets did not kill him immediately.

The attorney, who also defended OAS chief Raoul Salan, said it took 11 minutes for the foreign legionnaire to die and he had to be finished off by three "coup de grace" pistol bullets instead of the customary one.

The tall, blond Deguelre, who wore his old legion paratrooper uniform when he was executed, had been sentenced to death by a special military tribunal last month for directing the operations of OAS "killer commandos" in Algeria.

Deguelre was lingered by the prosecution at his trial as the man who ordered OAS killers to shoot down any Moslem they happened to see on the streets of Algiers. He also was convicted of ordering the machine gunning of Arab cafes and planting of plastic bombs in Algiers.

Witnesses said Deguelre, who had been transported from Fresnes Prison to the military fortress along heavily guarded roads, cried out "Vive la France" shortly before the firing squad raised their rifles for the dawn execution. He refused to be blindfolded.

Clay Affirms Using Troops If Necessary

BERLIN (UPI)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said Friday that western troops would be sent to the East-West Berlin border if necessary to deal with shooting incidents caused by Communist police.

Clay, President Kennedy's Berlin adviser, told newsmen before flying back to the United States that he was shocked by the shooting at fleeing refugees carried out on the border by Red police.

More shots were heard on the Communist side of the border Thursday night as Red guards apparently fired at an East German, attempting to escape.

In another incident before Clay left, East German border guards threw rocks at West Berlin police and drew three tear-gas grenades in return in the Bernauer Strasse area.

Clay, the hero of the Berlin airlift, said West Berlin police were able to deal with the situation and defend the sovereignty of West Berlin.

He added, however, that "the West Berlin police have full confidence of having Allied support when and if they need it."

Clay made the statement when newsmen asked him if he had discussed with U.S. officials the possibility of sending allied troops to the East-West city border.

Leaves For States

Promising he would return to Berlin for another visit in September, Clay flew to Frankfurt where he boarded another airliner for New York.

Clay said he still saw no solution of the Berlin controversy in sight. Nor, he said, was there any sign that four-power Berlin talks on border shootings, as suggested by Western allied notes to Moscow, were in prospect.

GOLD RESERVE UNCHANGED

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's gold reserve remained unchanged this week for the seventh week in a row, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

U.S. government securities held for foreign account declined by $16 million. These holdings, which represent potential claims against the U.S. gold reserve, stand at $6.290 billion.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last Friday evening there was a movie I wanted to see so I went by myself. (I'm a girl, 16.) As I walked into the theater a clean-cut man (I would guess his age to be about 25) smiled at me. I kept right on walking.

A few minutes later he was sitting next to me. He offered me some popcorn, started a conversation and we exchanged a few remarks.

When the movie was over he asked me if I'd like a soda and I said yes. His car was parked in a lot nearby and we drove to a little cafe. It was all very respectable. He didn't try to get fresh or anything. When he took me home I gave him my phone number.

My mother was waiting on the porch and saw me get out of the car. She asked me who the man was and I told her how we met. She almost took my head off.

I think a girl 16 is old enough to pick her own friends, don't you? Please help me. I'm in deep trouble at home. — ROSE

DEAR FRIEND: A Rose by any other name is still a pick-up when she gets into a car with a stranger. He may have looked "clean-cut," but many a decent-looking guy has been known to hit a girl over the head with a beer bottle — or worse yet. A man who is a girl's friend is a man who is a girl's friend.

time and any place. You say he appeared to be about 25. It just may be that he was 35 — with a wife and six kids.

You're home free on this one, Toots. Consider yourself lucky and promise never again.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been dating a young man who is from another city. He moved here a few months ago to take a job. Two weeks ago I invited him to have dinner in our home so he could become better acquainted with my family.

I have two brothers who are a couple of little brats. They are 10 and 12 years old, have no manners whatever and I'm really ashamed of them. The boys came to the table with dirty fingernails, uncombed hair, and they did far too much talking.

I haven't heard from the fellow since that day. Do you think perhaps he got a bad impression of my family and this ended our friendship? — HUMILIATED

DEAR HUMILIATED: If this is the reason the fellow has not called, then he's for the birds.

Your mother should have taught her sons better manners for their sake, not to impress company. In any event, the behavior of your brothers should not have made one particle of difference to the young man.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a widow 54 years old. My husband passed away seven months ago. He was a difficult man to live with but I kept my troubles to myself. More than once I told friends and relatives that the black eye and the cuts on my lip were from household accidents.

A man I've known for many years has asked me to go to work with him. His wife was a liar woman and I knew her before she died four years ago. Would it be sacrilegious to be seen with a gentleman only seven months after my husband's death? My sisters say I ought to be ashamed of myself for even considering such a thing. They claim I should stay in mourning for a full year. What is your advice? — UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Mourning! What! The shiners and the fangs! It's how you feel that counts, and if you feel like going out — go!

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Riders Near, Feuding Boils At Concord

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Political feuding over the impending arrival of "reverse freedom riders" in New Hampshire broke out anew Friday, with Gov. Wesley Powell the No. 1 target.

John W. King, Manchester, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, criticized Powell for his telegram Thursday to President Kennedy. The governor asked permission to use idle barracks at Grenier Air Force Base, Manchester, to house the Negroes being sent here by segregationists in New Orleans.

But the telegram also contained a reference to King.

"Apparently it is his position that the bus carrying these citizens should be met at the state border and turned back," King, in a statement Tuesday, had accused Powell of trying to make political hay out of the reverse freedom riders. In a statement Friday, King declared:

"In his craving for national publicity, even at the expense of New Hampshire taxpayers, our governor has attempted by false insinuation to create a ridiculous impression that I would turn back at our borders the large number of unfortunate colored people who are being rushed this very instant to New Hampshire through the joint efforts of Southern hate groups and Gov. Powell."

Also commenting on the bus situation was Thomas J. Pitagors of Nashua, president of the New Hampshire AFL-CIO, who said:

"We certainly feel these people should have every chance to assimilate themselves in the state picture and be given every protection of the law, both statute and moral."

"Of course the labor movement feels that the persons in New Orleans who sent these people up here are beneath contempt, but I'm afraid the people who do come up here are going to have to scale down their living standards. Unemployment and sacrifice which have been the glory of the past."

He got the Nobel award a year late because the Nobel jury decided in 1949 and made no presentation that year. His Pulitzer prize came in 1955 for "A Fable," a religious allegory which Faulkner considered his most important work.

His most recent work was "The Reivers," current Book of the Month Club selection for July. It got favorable attention from reviewers but was not rated as one of his major works.

"The Reivers," with a steady stream of rustic humor and comedy is unlike most Faulkner books, which probe into human corruption.

Its setting, however, is Yoknapatawpha County.

Faulkner peopled his mythical county with the grandiose exploits of the Sartoris family, along with the decay of later generations of the family.

He assembled an immense cast of characters of barbers, animals, children, Negroes and college girls, sheriffs, convicts, bootleggers and preachers and many others. He used rape, robbery, incest, murder, suicide as well as honor, gallantry and courage to embellish his plots.

Bunche attacks Black Muslims At Atlanta Meet

ATLANTA (UPI) — United Nations Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche said Friday night American Negroes "can and will eliminate the moral shame" of segregation.

The UN leader singled out a published account of a Black Muslim statement cheering the death of 130 white persons in the recent Paris plane crash.

Bunche said he was "saddened and sickened" to read the account.

"Black bigots are no better than the white breed," he said. "I both scorn and pity white bigots, but I despise those who are black."

He condemned the Black Muslims as a "cynical and irresponsible group exploiting the Negro's unhappy status."

In a speech to the 53rd annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Bunche urged the delegates to campaign relentlessly for every right in a world where "the hopes for a permanent peace have never been brighter."

Bunche, a Negro, condemned all forms of racial bigotry on the part of both Negroes and whites. He said he was concerned over the rapid increase in the number of organizations working in the civil rights field.

He said he believed such an increase would "weaken our effort by excessive diffusion of our limited resources of leadership and finance."

"Release us from the handicaps of race, remove the shameful shackles of color and we will meet our citizenship obligations much more fully," he insisted.

NOBEL PRIZEWINNER

Author Faulkner Dies At Oxford

By BEN THOMAS

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Author William Faulkner, whose "life's work in the agony and sweat of the human spirit" brought him the Nobel and Pulitzer prizes, died Friday at 64.

The death of the shy, retiring literary genius came from a heart attack in his hometown of Oxford, which President Kennedy—in tribute to Faulkner—said is "in the heart of the setting for that turbulent world of light and shadow which was the towering creation of his mind and art."

Faulkner made the mythical Mississippi county with the unpronounceable name Yoknapatawpha and its county seat town Jefferson famous throughout the world. The locale of many of his interconnected novels and short stories bore a close physical resemblance to Oxford.

His wife, Estelle, the childhood sweetheart whom he married when only a few Mississippians knew his name—was at his side when he died.

Services are planned at the Faulkner home here at 2 p.m. Saturday.

He had returned here some weeks ago from the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, where he had been a lecturer in American literature in recent years.

The small, wiry man with close-cropped iron-gray hair and an up-swept mustache became the fourth American to win the Nobel prize for literature, when he received the 1949 award in 1959.

His description of life's work came at his acceptance of the coveted award.

"I believe that man will not merely endure; he will prevail," said Faulkner in his Nobel acceptance speech. "He is immortal, because he has a soul, a spirit capable of compassion and sacrifice and endurance."

Faulkner said the duty of a writer was "to help man endure by lifting his heart, by reminding him of the courage and honor and hope and pride and compassion and pity and sacrifice which have been the glory of the past."

He got the Nobel award a year late because the Nobel jury decided in 1949 and made no presentation that year. His Pulitzer prize came in 1955 for "A Fable," a religious allegory which Faulkner considered his most important work.

His most recent work was "The Reivers," current Book of the Month Club selection for July. It got favorable attention from reviewers but was not rated as one of his major works.

Aged Movies

Will Continue

As TV Diet

By ROB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next season will see television continuing a trend of recent years—retreads of old movie hits.

Whenever producers are stuck for a new series idea, they search the vaults. The 1962-63 season will see three new shows based on movie classics.

Gene Kelly will be starring in Bing Crosby's old cask with an hour-long "Going My Way." Fess Parker subs for James Stewart in a half-hour "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

"The Virginians" shapes up as a 90-minute Western based on the Owen Wister book, "The Virginian," which was filmed at least three times.

They will join four other series that stemmed from films. "Dr. Kildare," "Cheyenne," "Lassie," and "Dobie Gillis." Few recall that the latter was once a feature starring Bobby Van and a younger named Debbie Reynolds.

Viewers will doubtless be seeing other adaptations in the future. MGM has filmed a half-hour version of the Andy Hardy series with Jimmy Hawkins in the Mickey Rooney role (why not give it to Mike? He needs the work).

MGM also has versions of "The Bells Are Ringing," "Designing Woman," "Room for Two," and "Woman of the Year" in the works. Fox has announced plans for cutting down "12 O'Clock High" and "Three Coins in the Fountain" to home-screen size.

This sort of thing has been going on for years, with the odds heavy against movie adaptations. Last season saw the demise of five such series: "Maverick," "Father of the Bride," "Bus Stop," "National Velvet" and "Room for One More."

In the earlier days of television, "Mama" ran up a long stand with Percy Wood playing the role that Irene Dunne created in "Remember Mama."

Otherwise the syndication field is littered with the remains of movie adaptations that tried with scant success to make the transition to the new medium.

Among those that came to mind "Thin Man," "Third Man," "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," "The Apartment," "Mr. Lucky," "Flicka," "Asphalt Jungle," "Casablanca," "King of Kings," "Broken Arrow," "Five Fingers," "Life With Father," "The West Side Passage," "Topper," "My Sister Eileen," and "The Vikings."

Earthquakes Hit On Greek Island

PATRAI, Greece (AP) — Earthquakes shook Patrai and other communities on the north coast of Peloponnese Island on Friday, sending residents outdoors scrambling in panic.

The severe tremors were felt as far away as the Ionian islands of Zakynthos, Lefkas and Cephalonia—badly damaged in a 1953 earthquake. No injuries or damage were reported Friday.

Red China Fires Guns At Matsus

MATSU ISLAND, OFF China lieve fishing conditions warrant Coast (AP) — Communist China's fleet increase. There are test-fired its big guns against the enough motorized fishing junks Matsus complex this week. Two along the Red mainland to move men, caught in the open, were a Red army corps—some 40,000 men—one intelligence officer reported.

Matsu's commanding general said the Red fire was part of an obvious Communist program to test new artillery against this cluster of strongly fortified Nationalist Chinese islands just off Fuzhou, a key mainland port.

Beginning May 13, after almost two years of Red artillery silence in the Matsu area, the Communist test-fire has followed a definite probing pattern of 20 to 50 shells each time. It is interpreted by Nationalist defenders here as a probable prelude to heavy artillery attacks.

The belief that the Reds will take military action against the Matsu complex in 1962 permeates this island, from the top command down to the men who stand watch around the clock in hundreds of gun positions.

It is based on intelligence reports, accepted by American military advisors, showing greatly increased Red military activity on the mainland opposite Matsu and its outpost island.

The past six weeks have seen doubled fishing craft movements, apparently with new boats brought into the area. This development is still being evaluated.

FDA Claims That Calories Really Count

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) charged Friday that the best-selling book "Calories Don't Count" was deliberately fashioned to promote the sale of worthless dietary pills.

FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick said in a statement that "Unfortunately, calories do count." He denounced the book; its author, Dr. Herman Taller; its publisher, Simon & Schuster, Inc.; Cove Vitamin and Pharmaceutical, Inc., makers of a capsule called CDC (Calories Don't Count).

The FDA said Taller, Cove Vitamin, two executives of the publishing firm, and officials of a land development company held financial interest in a corporation set up to promote sales of the pills.

The book has been on best-seller lists for about eight months. Its theme is that overweight people can eat as much as they want, regardless of calories, as long as they include a lot of unsaturated fats in their diet.

Ed Bobley, president of the Glen Cove, N.Y., firm, issued a statement blaming Simon & Schuster for the incident. During FDA hearings on the case earlier this year, Cove stopped selling the capsules and began recalling them from the market.

Simon & Schuster issued a statement attacking the FDA for putting out "without a scintilla of justification, a statement carefully conceived to give the false and misleading impression that we published a book for the purpose of promoting a food product."

The company said there was nothing in the FDA hearing record to support "these vicious and irresponsible innuendoes." It said it published the book "in good faith as a presentation of a novel dietary theory advocated by... a reputable physician."

HE REQUESTS ASYLUM

British Lock Up Red Spy Soblen

LONDON (UPI) — Runaway Soviet spy Robert A. Soblen Friday requested political asylum in Britain. Shortly afterwards, the red pajama-clad Soblen was taken from his hospital to Briton prison while Britain pondered his latest maneuver to escape life imprisonment in the United States.

A spokesman for the British Home Office said Soblen's request for asylum was being "considered." The announcement came after a writ of habeas corpus that delayed Soblen's return to the United States at least until July 17.

A Home Office spokesman said Friday night the outcome of the request for asylum could be known "Monday or some other time next week."

The desperate political and legal maneuvers of the 62-year-old Lithuanian-born Soblen—already doomed to die from leukemia—snarled him in such a tangled and complex web that no responsible American or British official would even guess how it would end.

Soblen jumped $100,000 bail in New York June 28 and fled to Israel on a forged passport belonging to his dead Canadian brother. His attorney, Ari Ankori, had sought political asylum for him in Tel Aviv but Premier David-Gurion ordered Soblen expelled Sunday for entering the country illegally.

Soblen slashed his wrist and plunged a stolen steak knife into his abdomen the same day while he was being flown to New York aboard an El Al Israeli jet airliner in the company of the Chief U.S. Marshall, James McShane, and an Israeli police surgeon, Dr. Asher Gottlieb.

There was speculation Friday he had knifed himself more to halt the flight than to try to kill himself. London's Hillingdon hospital announced Friday he was fit enough to travel and he was removed to prison immediately.

Soblen's pale face was accentuated by his red pajamas and the red blanket covering his stretcher as he was carried from the hospital to an ambulance. He put a bandaged wrist over his face when he saw photographers waiting outside the hospital.

Removal to a prison provided one of the fine legal technicalities involved in the request for a habeas corpus—that the prisoner is being detained. Because of the legal entanglements he was

Services Slated

ATTENDS MONROE PLAY

Scopes Keeps His Evolution Beliefs

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

The central character in the famed 1925 "Monkey case" hasn't changed his beliefs any on Darwin's theory of evolution—but he laughs at the mistaken idea that he said man is part monkey.

"No, I didn't say that," says John Scopes of Shreveport, "although they act like it sometimes."

Scopes was in Monroe Friday night for the opening performance of "Inherit the Wind," Pulitzer Prize-winning play being presented by Northeast State College and the Little Theater.

The play is slated for 8:15 p.m. nightly through Monday, at the Strauss playhouse on Lamy Lane.

It is based on the three-week trial in Dayton, Tenn. Scopes was indicted in a test case, on charges that he violated Tennessee law by teaching evolution in Rhea County High School.

William Jennings Bryan, famed orator, Democratic party leader and presidential candidate, prosecuted the case successfully, and died four days after it ended. Later, the state Supreme Court threw out the conviction and said that although the law was constitutional, it never could be enforced.

Clarence Darrow, considered the greatest criminal lawyer of his day, defended Scopes.

Last night was the first time that Scopes has attended a performance of the play, although he went to the movie premier in 1960.

"I don't think the picture made enough of the point that the trial actually was in defense of religious liberty—or that the play will. The defense was fighting for religious liberty of any kind, and for the peoples' particular liberties... as well as a fight for my liberties to teach science," he contends.

The only inaccuracy in the play is Scopes' girl friend. "I didn't have a girl, and she wasn't a preacher's daughter," he grinned. "And I didn't stay in jail either, although I do in the play."

"At the trial itself, I had a jury, but it never sat in on the case. I imagine that during the entire trial, the jury was in the courtroom for about 30 minutes. First the attorneys had an argument over the constitutionality of the case, then over the admissibility of scientific testimony, then pure legal arguments."

"The jury was out of the room this entire time. They simply heard one boy testify that he was in my class and that I used a certain textbook which taught evolution. "I think the judge handed down the verdict. As I recall, Judge Ralsdon said to the jury, "You have found a verdict of guilty." The foreman may have said it, but I didn't hear him."

Scopes' $100 fine was paid by the Baltimore Sun, which sent H. L. Mencken, nationally-known political writer to cover the trial.

"I think the trial was worthwhile, but I don't think it accomplished as much as we hoped it would."

The legal essence of the anti-evolution law was that nothing be taught in public school that contradicted the story of a man as set out in Genesis.

"If the state says you have to teach something in accordance with one particular religion, then it has the power to force schools to teach the beliefs of the person in power in that state—and this can lead to suppression of personal and religious liberties."

"The trial itself was based on the fundamental freedom of religion guaranteed in the Constitution," he maintains.

Scopes points out, "I couldn't see why anybody could find a conflict between the teaching of science in school and religion. I believe that religion and the theory of evolution can be compatible."

After the trial, Scopes, then 25, was offered a graduate scholarship to the University of Chicago and took it, leaving behind his first and last teaching job.

He then went into geology,

U.S. May Have 259.6 Millions By 1980 Census

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau estimated Friday that the U.S. population would grow to 259.6 million by 1975 and 259.6 million by 1980.

The bureau said it reached the estimates by projecting the present population of 188.5 million on the basis of the current fertility rate, which was expected to continue about the same.

A report last January estimated the population would climb to 196.2 million by 1965 and 214.2 million by 1970.

The census experts added cautiously that "these projections hinge on certain basic assumptions—that there will be no major war, epidemic, severe economic depression or other catastrophe in the periods between now and 1980."

working in South America and for United Gas in Texas and Shreveport.

Ironically, Scopes was a mathematics and physics teacher who substituted for three weeks for an ill biology teacher, thus teaching evolution during that time. He agreed to take part in the test case.

Although the girl friend of the play didn't materialize, Scopes did get married. Mrs. Scopes accompanied him to the play last night. Their two sons live in New Orleans.

What about the law that brought on the trial which he recalls as "a circus"?

It's still on the books of Tennessee—but the schools teach the theory of evolution.
